

Thousands See Exhibits At Southeastern Fair; Midway Makes Big Hit

Fine Program Is Offered for Manufacturers' Day. Many Band Concerts to Be Offered.

AUTOMOBILE RACES SCORE ON FIRST DAY

Pageant, "Be Fit, America," Will Be Offered Tonight—Officials Gratified Over Prospects.

Manufacturers' Day Program.
8:00—Admission gates open.
8:30—Cattle, swine, horse, sheep and poultry buildings open.
9:00—Agricultural, Manufacturers, Liberal Arts buildings open.
10:00—Johnny J. Jones and Lakewood attractions open on midway.
10:30—Band concert, Sylvan terrace.
1:00—Band concert, grandstand.
1:30—Opening program in front of grandstand, automobile races and diving horse.
6:00—Band concert, Sylvan terrace.
7:00—Johnny J. Jones and Lakewood attractions on midway.
7:30—Pageant, "Be Fit, America."
9:00—Fireworks.

With preparations complete in every detail, the officials of the Southeastern Fair association threw the gates of the exposition grounds at Lakewood open to the public at 8 o'clock Thursday.

The weather was ideal, the kind fair managers pray for, and as the footpath and roadway gates were swung wide, hundreds who had been waiting, thronged into the grounds.

The sprinkling of people soon reached the proportions of a crowd, and by noon the ticket sellers at the various concessions and at the main gates were doing a capacity business.

The first of the exhibitions to open was the swine, cattle, sheep and poultry exhibits. They proved to be the center of attraction for the morning visitors.

Poland-China Pans.
Hundreds were attracted to the Poland-China pens, where specimens from some of the finest herds in the country were crunched Georgia corn.

There were all breeds, classes and ages on exhibition. The Duroc-Jersey pen, with a group of high-standing individuals, vied with the Poland-Chinas for the center of the live stock stage.

Sheep of mutton and wool types battled about their pens in a seemingly futile effort to accustom themselves to their new surroundings. Some prize Shropshires occupied a place of importance.

The poultry show featured the annual exhibition of the Rhode Island Red Club of America. Fine cockerels in prime plumage showed what can be accomplished by super-breeding. The entire exhibit represented the blue blooded aristocracy of the poultry world.

The famous Jersey herd raised by the Berry school, headed by the splendid individual Maxine Raleigh, last year's Southeastern fair grand champion arrived on the grounds late in the afternoon. Clifford E. Russell, who has charge of the animal husbandry department in the school has charge of the herd at the fair. He has exhibited at Knoxville and Chattanooga and so far this season has been awarded three first prizes and a number of honorable mentions.

Races Draw Crowds.
The races at 1:30 o'clock attracted a huge crowd. The major portions of the grandstands were filled.

Five hundred school children took part in the "Be Fit for America" spectacle in the evening, which was followed by a brilliant display of fireworks.

The Johnny Jones midway shows of a brand-new array of frivolity occupied the amusement pinnacle. Crowds surged through the concessions. The evening patronage was exceptionally heavy. During the afternoon the lots were the mecca for the school children.

Every school in Fulton county contributed exhibits being shown in the educational department of the fair. They range from furniture, woodcraft, many of the exhibits from the manual training departments rivaled the needlework, domestic science products, work of professionals. Some exquisite needlework by schoolgirls attracted a great deal of attention.

Fine Art Gallery.
An art gallery which includes some of the finest oils from the brushes of American and European painters was in charge of Mrs. W. E. Moore. Secretary Strickland, of the fair association, was unstinted in his praise of the response received from the public. "These are splendid crowds," he said, "and although I am not in possession of the actual figures, I am inclined to hazard a guess that they rival those of any opening day in the fair's history."

BARTOW COUNTY FORMS BIG CLUB TO BACK GEORGE

Howard Requests County Committee to Black Out His Name on Official Ballots.

CARTERSVILLE PAPER SUPPORTING GEORGE

Sentinel Will Come Out for Him Today—Wright Denies He Voted for Hardwick for Governor.

Bartow county, the home of Mrs. W. H. Felton, senatorial appointee of Governor Hardwick, was claimed Thursday by the forces of Judge Walter F. George as the seat of one of the strongest clubs in the state supporting Judge George for the United States senate.

Mastery of the county has been claimed by Hardwick leaders on account of the governor's appointment of Mrs. W. H. Felton to the office made vacant by the death of Thomas E. Wilson.

In answer to this claim George headquarters made public Thursday a list containing the names of 236 Bartow county citizens who have organized themselves to sweep the county for George.

The copy of an editorial of Thursday in the Cartersville Tribune was also given out declaring that Judge George is the "only candidate in this race who has any chance whatever of securing a majority of the votes of Bartow county."

Developments of the day included a statement by Seaborn Wright denying the published report that he supported Governor Hardwick in the recent gubernatorial campaign; news from Thomson, home of Senator Watson, that Mrs. Alice Louise Lytle, publisher of The Sentinel since Mr. Watson's death, will announce in Friday's issue The Sentinel's support of Judge George, and a statement from George headquarters commenting on the speech made by Seaborn Wright in Atlanta Wednesday night.

Letters have gone out from Judge G. H. Howard, retired as a candidate for United States senator in the contest of next Tuesday, to all county committees requesting that his name, which appears on the tickets, be blacked out before any ballots are distributed.

When Judge Howard withdrew he sent official notification of his retirement to the secretary of the state democratic executive committee, under whose direction the ballots were printed. The secretary replied that the

HAYES EXONERATED IN CHOIR MURDERS

Case Against Youth Blows Up When Accuser Repudiates Story—Examine Widow's Clothes.

New Brunswick, N. J., October 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The case against Clifford Hayes, held four days as the slayer of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, blew up today, and the authorities turned back in their investigation theories that provided a mere logical motive.

The blowup came when Raymond Schneider, Hayes' accuser, summoned a doctor Beckman, of Somerset county, to the jail at Somerset, where Schneider was held a witness, and repudiated his story of the crime. The authorities immediately renewed their investigation.

The new turn took officials' back to the home of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the slain clergyman, and to that of James Mills, widower of the slain choir singer.

Take Widow's Coat.
Detectives visited the Hall home and took away a fawn-colored coat and scarf which had been dyed since the murders. They sent it to an analytical chemist for analysis of brown spots which the cleaners reported were beneath the black dye they had applied.

Mrs. Hall is known to have worn a light colored coat in the early morning of September 15—the morning after the murders—when, according to her story, she went to the Church of St. John the Evangelist, looking for her husband. She has told the authorities her brother, Willie Stevens, accompanied her. Witnesses who saw her return home declare she was alone.

HARRIS TO BACK LEADER IN RACE AGAINST HARDWICK

On Visit to Polk County Home, Will Urge Concentration on Strongest Candidate.

BELIEVES MAJORITY IS ANTI-HARDWICK

He Points Out Expense to State in Extra Race for Governor If Hardwick Wins.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel

Washington, October 12.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Senator William J. Harris left this afternoon for his home at Cedarhurst, Ga., Polk county, to be in that section visiting relatives and friends for several days. He did not give out a statement on the senatorial primary before leaving, but told several Georgians who called at his office that he was going home to vote and urge that opposition to Governor Hardwick be concentrated on the candidate having the greatest strength in his county. It was also said he would tell his home people of the large expense to the state in case a governor has to be nominated and then elected in special election if Governor Hardwick is sent to the senate again.

Senator Harris pointed out to his friends that Governor-elect Walker carried Polk county with 1,600 votes and Governor Hardwick only received 300. Senator Harris is expected to urge his home people to call a conference with representatives from every voting precinct, it was learned here, in the hope of agreeing on some candidate opposing Governor Hardwick. Senator Harris told the Georgians, it is said here, that he would support in the primary next Tuesday the candidate his home people agreed upon, and would support the candidate opposing Hardwick if a second primary is held and Hardwick is in that race.

In 1918 Senator Harris defeated Governor Hardwick, basing his campaign on Hardwick's war record in the senate. The senior senator feels it is said, that a large majority of the people are against Hardwick, but that if the opposition is scattered he might win although a minority candidate.

Since returning to Washington several democratic senators have asked Senator Harris about the senatorial race. It is stated, and they feel that a victory for Hardwick in Georgia will be construed by the country as a democratic defeat and a republican victory, and would encourage the republicans. It was pointed out that Governor Hardwick conferred with President Harding en route from Canada to Georgia recently, and just before he announced as a candidate for the senate.

After the primary Senator Harris will visit different sections of the state and deliver addresses on his work in the senate and conditions in Europe which affect the people, it was stated at his office.

Ex-Kaiser Gives Views On Revealed Religion In Letter to Hollman

Takes Position That Belief, as Given in Old Testament, Will Be Essentially Changed by Research Without Harming Kernel and Content, Which Remain Always the Same.

Following is the twentieth of thirty daily installments of the memoirs of Wilhelm Hohenzollern, formerly Kaiser Wilhelm II, of the former German empire. The entire series is copyrighted for The Atlanta Constitution by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, located at Stationers' Hall, London. Publication and translation rights are reserved, including Scandinavian. Reproduction in whole or in part without permission is prohibited by law.

When I visited the monastery of Monte Cassino I became acquainted in the person of Arch-Bishop Monsignor Krug with a man of extraordinary mental gifts and comprehensive culture, who had traveled a great deal about the world. He could express himself with equal fluency in Italian, English and French, and his mother tongue, German. In his address to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and me, he pointed out that nearly all the German emperors, as well as the Lombard kings before them, had paid visits to Monte Cassino. He presented me with a magnificent collection of copies of documents of the time of the Emperor Frederick II, taken from the library of the order, and I reciprocated by presenting him with the works of Frederick the Great.

Agriculture flourishes in the environs of the monasteries maintained by the Benedictine order, being carried on by the lay brothers with all the latest improvements, to the benefit of the backward peasantry of the region; and in the country and town communities of the order church singing and organ playing are zealously cultivated by the monks, who have attained a high degree of artistic art. The art of the goldsmith also flourishes among the monks, likewise embroidery among the Benedictine nuns.

I caused to be reproduced in its full size the Labarum (standard) of the Emperor Constantine the Great, designed in accordance with the researches made by Mgr. Wilpert; one copy I presented to the pope, another to my palace chapel at Berlin. The latter was stolen from the chapel by the mob during the days of the revolution. The metal work was done entirely by monks, the embroidery by

MRS. TOM WATSON NOT SUPPORTING HARDWICK IN RACE

Widow of Late Senator Authorizes Dr. C. H. Kittrell to Deny Reports Circulated in State.

DID NOT VOTE FOR HIM IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Mrs. Watson Gives Statement to Dr. Kittrell and Confirms It in Message to Constitution.

Mrs. Thomas E. Watson, widow of the late United States senator, from her sick bed in Thomson, Thursday, put a sudden stop to insidious reports being circulated over Georgia that she had voted for Governor Hardwick on September 18, and was now supporting him for the United States senate.

She first authorized Dr. C. H. Kittrell, a member of the legislature from Laurens, and a life-long political and personal friend of her husband, to deny such reports, and subsequently during the day, in a telegram to The Constitution, she declared that Dr. Kittrell had quoted her correctly in denying that she had voted for Governor Hardwick, or is supporting him for the senate now.

Various newspaper stories have been going the rounds of the Georgia press that Mrs. Watson would probably support Governor Hardwick, and otherwise speculating as to her position in the senatorial race.

The Constitution has not published any of these in the absence of any facts or news developments on which to base any correct or unbiased news statement regarding her connection in any way with the race.

Dr. Kittrell's Statement.
Thursday morning The Constitution received a dispatch from Dr. Kittrell, who is one of the most prominent figures on the Georgia political commission, chairman of agricultural committee No. 1 in the house of representatives, and a leading citizen of the twelfth congressional district, quoting Mrs. Watson.

Recognizing its unquestioned authenticity it sent by Dr. Kittrell himself it nevertheless, in the abundance of precaution to present the news correctly, repeated the telegram to Mrs. Watson, at Thomson, and received a direct reply verifying the Kittrell dispatch. This therefore becomes distinctly the feature of the day in political circles.

Telegrams Sent.

The telegraphic correspondence follows: "Atlanta Constitution: 'Unscrupulous campaigners are circulating the statement that Mrs. Thos. E. Watson voted for Hardwick in the recent gubernatorial race and that she is for him for the senate.' I am authorized from the bedside of Mrs. Watson over long distance telephone to state that she never went to the polls, has never voted for anyone and is not for Hardwick for the senate."

"Dublin, Ga., October 19, 1922." "The Constitution sent the following wire to Mrs. Watson: "Mrs. Thos. E. Watson, Thomson, Ga."

"We are in receipt of a telegram from Dr. C. H. Kittrell, Dublin, Ga., which we quote in full as follows: 'Dr. Kittrell's telegram copied.' 'Knowing Dr. Kittrell's close relations with the late Senator Watson, we assume this is authentic but before using thought it best to advise with you and ask you to wire us accordingly. Please answer.' "October 12, 1922."

"THE CONSTITUTION."

In reply The Constitution received the following wire from Mrs. Watson: "Atlanta Constitution: 'Dr. Kittrell has quoted me correctly. I have taken no part in political matters at all.' "MRS. THOS. E. WATSON, Thomson, Ga., October 12, 1922."

Mystery Shrouds Injury to Woman In Auto Accident

Brought to Hospital by Man and Woman, Who Did Not Give Names.

Perhaps fatally injured, a woman believed to be Mrs. Harry New, of the Wellington apartments, Ivy and Houston streets, was received at the Grady hospital late Thursday night. The patient was carried to the hospital by a man and a woman who did not reveal their identity. They said they found her "in the street" and that she had been struck by a passing car. They gave her name and address and left hurriedly, hospital authorities said, after promising to notify the woman's husband.

Detective H. W. Armstrong and Joe Wiley were assigned to the case, and after an investigation said they believed that the woman was the victim of a "joy ride" accident. They stated that just prior to the woman's arrival at the hospital a roadster with three occupants answering the description of the one driven by the couple who told the authorities they found her, was seen speeding up Peachtree street.

The patient was taken to the emergency room where it was discovered her skull was fractured at the base. She was still unconscious at a late hour Thursday, her identity having not been definitely established.

Mrs. Onezima De Bouchelle Plans Early Return to Atlanta to Sue For Defamation of Her Character

Leaves for Old Home

MRS. ONEZIMA DE BOUCHELLE.

Mrs. De Bouchelle Issues Statement Expressing Appreciation of Her Reception Here.

MUST HAVE REST NOW, SHE SAYS, ON LEAVING

Gamble Returns to New Orleans With His Client. Candler Maintains Silence on Case.

Mrs. Onezima de Bouchelle, principal in the Candler-de Bouchelle broken engagement case, will return to Atlanta within ten days or two weeks to institute legal proceedings against Asa G. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, and others for alleged defamation of character. This statement was made by Harry Gamble, her attorney, last night just before the two boarded a train at the Terminal station for New Orleans.

Just before boarding the train Mrs. de Bouchelle issued a final expression of her deep appreciation for the uniform kindness accorded her. She must have rest now, she said. "The ordeal has been tremendous, but no more than making up my own mind to go through with it."

Following a lengthy conference with his client Thursday afternoon Attorney Gamble decided to return to New Orleans on the same train bearing Mrs. de Bouchelle. A woman friend of Mrs. de Bouchelle, who came to Atlanta from the Louisiana city Thursday, also returned with her. Mr. Gamble announced Thursday morning that he would probably remain in the city for a day or two. Later events, he said, changed this decision.

Letter to Candler.
Other developments in the scandal tangle were centered around the letter released for publication Thursday Mrs. de Bouchelle wrote Mr. Candler in which she announced her intention of coming to Atlanta. This action was to be taken in the event he did not give her the names of those charged with slandering her character.

Mr. Candler's reply, which resulted in Mrs. de Bouchelle coming to the city, the lawyer declined to give out for publication. They did not wish to persecute Mr. Candler, he said. It was intimated that this letter, among many others being held in "vaults in New Orleans" contain love passages.

From the Candler side of the controversy the apophysis attitude was maintained. Judge John S. Candler, mentioned prominently by Mrs. de Bouchelle, told newspapermen that they would have no statement to make. This was a decision reached at a conference of the three brothers, Asa G. Candler, Sr., Judge John S. Candler and Bishop Warren A. Candler, it was intimated. At any rate, none of the three would talk.

No Lawyer Retained.
No Atlanta attorney has yet been retained to assist in the prosecution of those accused of slandering Mrs. de Bouchelle. This will not be settled until their return here, said the New Orleans lawyer. He goes to Louisiana, principally to discuss this matter with his associates. A number of Atlanta attorneys have been suggested. He declined to give their names.

"This has been a painful ordeal for me," Mrs. de Bouchelle remarked at the Terminal. "But it is not beyond my expectation. I believe the process of making up my mind to undergo it was worse than the realization. But even so I have gone the limit of my strength."

"I must have rest. Had it not been for the uniform and sympathetic kind-

HIGH SCHOOL SITE TO BE DISCUSSED

Greenfield Financially Interested in Property Near Jackson Location, Says J. Jacobs.

In an effort to definitely decide on a location for Atlanta's Girls' High school, to be erected with funds derived from the 1921 bond issue, the school committee of the bond commission will meet at the city hall at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

If the committee concurs in the selection of Jackson site adjacent to Grant Park by the board of education the long-existing controversy probably will be settled. If it rejects the site, consideration of other sites will be undertaken again.

Charge Against Greenfield.

Charges that A. D. Greenfield, local real estate man, who is understood to be hostile to the Brown site on Washington street, opposes that location because he is financially interested in property near the Jackson site and the Vanira street site were made Thursday by J. Jacobs, a citizen of the second ward, who is a broker with offices on Decatur street.

The charges were made by Mr. Jacobs as the outgrowth of the bond commission meeting Tuesday, at which Greenfield questioned the worth of Jacobs' opinion on the Jackson site because he was a "Decatur street pawnbroker."

At the bond commission meeting, Jacobs, at the request of the chairman, had given his opinion of the Jackson property, declaring it was not preferable for the high school. At that point, it is said, Greenfield, a spectator, arose and intimated that because of his profession he was not qualified to give an opinion of any value.

Jacobs' Statement.
"His hostility to the selection of the Brown property on Washington street is prompted by the fact that he

Watch Your Step For Its Friday And October 13

If You Don't Believe It's Hard Luck, Just Ask Palmer Plas.

BY H. H. WIMPÉE

Anything is liable to happen today. A general resurrection of the well known flock of horse-shoes; digging out the old hind legs of graveyard rabbits; and otherwise dragging forth of charms calculated to put to flight "jinxes" of Friday the thirteenth, was in process Thursday evening by Atlanta's superstitious colony—and said colony apparently boasts a large membership.

The writer has never had very much cause for apprehension when the calendar slips in with a "hoo-doo day" for it was on Friday the thirteenth a goodly number of years ago that his father awaited in suspense for the family doctor to break the news that all was well and "it's a boy."

Whether this particular incident has proved unlucky for the world, or to the hoo-doo scribe, is a matter of speculation. Many unusual stories concerning the "jinxes" of Friday the thirteenth are usually revived whenever these two symbols of hoodooism fall on the same date. One of the most widely circulated yarns is told by Palmer Plas, well known negro convict-preacher, who is at present engaged as cook for a prominent Atlanta family.

Plas was 13 years old when he first fell into the toils of the law. Some of the crimes for which Plas has been arrested on Friday the thirteenth were film-flaming, robbing the collection baskets of the church of which he was pastor, and larceny after trust.

At the age of 13 years, Plas declares he was a Primitive Baptist. He later tried practically all of the other religious branches and now lays claim to being a devout Seventh-Day Adventist. One of the old tricks ness of the people that have met and helped me I could not have gone through with it. Tears came to my eyes when I think of the gentleness of these strangers, both men and women. I did not expect it. A woman in my situation is beset with suspicion and doubt. I know all that and was and am prepared to endure it. I must.

"My future is very much in the hands of the people of this city. I have more faith and courage than ever. They have been so kind."

Letter Made Public.

The letter from Mrs. de Bouchelle to Mr. Candler was given out for publication early Thursday morning. It had been decided the night before, Attorney Gamble said, not to issue copies of it to the newspapers. But two men in whom he has every confidence brought news to him early Thursday that additional reports were out against his client. The men, he added, were not detectives. "We have not hired any," he added. "They are merely men in whom we have every confidence, who have volunteered their services."

The letter informs Mr. Candler that Mrs. de Bouchelle will come to Atlanta in the event he does not furnish her the names of her accusers. "I will not allow myself to be placed in the position of a woman cast aside because she is not supposed to be a good woman," Mrs. de Bouchelle wrote the Atlanta financier. "I will come to Atlanta even at the risk of misconstruction of my motives," she added.

Mrs. de Bouchelle received a string of visitors from early in the morning until she was forced to retire to make ready for her journey. Many women called to see her in person. Others phoned. They all expressed sympathy and admiration for her courage, it was said.

Mr. Gamble was in conference with the "two men" several times during the day. It was understood that they were investigating the reception the Louisiana beauty was being given here. Mrs. de Bouchelle's letter to Mr. Candler, a copy of which was retained by her, follows:

My attorney informs me that yesterday you refused to divulge the names of the men in Atlanta who, you say, claim to have visited me there in my rooms for improper purposes. You expect me to let this hideous slander go unopposed? I'll publish it to the whole world, and we will see if the world is as credulous as you seem to be, and as you expect me to be. If there are any such men, and I certainly do not believe there are, who make such statements, they have been paid to do it, and they shall go to the penitentiary along with those who hired them!

This is a clumsy conspiracy that imposes on nobody but you. Why did it come up in Atlanta right at the time, in fact, just in time, to stop your coming to Reno for our wedding on the 20th? Why does it come up in Atlanta at all except that it is distant from my home and friends, and where it will be harder for me to meet perjurers and hirelings?

For my attorney stated you said the man was a traveling salesman. That is a respectable class. I'll call on the traveling salesman of the south to protect me, an innocent, defenseless woman from a dog, a cur, who is a tool of my enemies!

Must I divulge his name? You must divulge the name of this person. Unless you do I'll act on the assumption that there is no such person and that you have been too willing to be imposed upon.

Besides, you are a Christian gentleman. As a Christian gentleman, as a man of honor, can you treat a helpless woman this way? You know I have not a single relative in the world. I am not supposed to you as my promised husband and natural protector, but just as a man, are you willing to see me treated this way in your city, in your home, where you are all powerful? Oh! How can you think for a minute that I ought to accept this insult in silence and humbly steal away into some remote place to hide the shame of a woman cast aside because she is not supposed to be a good woman? I'll never do it!

I entrust you by my friendship, in the name of the feeling of affection that have existed between us to go more deeply in this matter. You will find it false. It is a wicked, vicious attempt to destroy an innocent woman! If you will not comply with this request I will come to Atlanta at the risk of public misconstruction and against my every inclination for I cannot and will not allow myself to be placed in this position.

All I ask is plain justice.

(Signed) ONEZIMA DE BOUCHELLE.

Legette Offers Aid.

Los Angeles, Calif., October 12.—Wilbur Legette, who claimed he was the "traveling salesman" mentioned in Mrs. de Bouchelle's alleged charges preceding the breaking of his engagement to Mrs. Onezima de Bouchelle, has wired Mrs. de Bouchelle, asking her to call on him if he can help her, it was learned Thursday.

Legette's message was quoted as follows: "Anything that I can do for you to assist you, don't fail to call on me. Keep up your fight and make them eat their dirt. I gave their statement the lie. I am strong for you."

The British government has granted about $80,000 for research work in connection with the electrical industry.

WRIGHT ANSWERS SENTINEL ATTACK

Augusta, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—An attack by The Columbia Sentinel on Seaborn Wright, declaring him to be a political wolf in sheep's clothing in pretending to stand as the Watson man in the senate race, and an answer by Mr. Wright in his address here to about 200 people here tonight in the court room were the chief features of the campaign locally today. A large part of his address was devoted to an attack upon Judge George.

The Sentinel in its issue of Thursday declares Mr. Wright has not been a political friend of Senator Watson, but has been the friend of ex-Senator Hoke Smith and has been the continual ally of Hoke Smith. The paper says Wright has no right to expect the support of Senator Watson's friends and claims to have high authority for the statement that Wright's announcement for the senate was prepared in Marion Smith's office in Atlanta and remained there until it was definitely determined that Mr. Smith would not be a candidate where upon the announcement was given to the public.

"Seaborn Wright has been allied with and identified with all that Watson opposed and that he should now rush in where a month ago he feared to tread—rush in with the cry 'I am he who represents all the principles and policies of Watson.'"

Alluding to this in his address here, Mr. Wright said: "I have just read the last copy of The Columbia Sentinel. I have been warned for some time that this paper would ultimately announce for George and make a vicious assault on me."

"I do not hold the woman who wrote the article responsible. I know the man who inspired it. A set of blackguards angered because I have their candidate defeated. Too cowardly to fight like men in the open, they furnished a woman who never even knew me, with lying information too contemptible and dirty to be noticed."

"Tom Watson, from our schoolboy days, was a loyal friend of mine. He wrote the platform on which I ran for governor in 1896. In the years since then he has had a hundred kind things to say to me, and never, in speech or writing, one word of unkindness. There is not an old-line Watson follower in Georgia who does not know this."

St. Louis, Mo.—Following receipt of many complaints that girl elevator operators here talk so much that they fail to operate their cars properly, Director of Public Safety McKelvey today announced he would ask for an ordinance requiring elevator operators to be licensed similar to chauffeurs.

Madison, Wis.—A wood composition stronger and better than the real article is being made from sawdust and shavings as a result of research made by Professor George Kemmerer, of the University of Wisconsin, according to announcement today.

Newark, N. J.—Postmaster Frank Book has just received a letter written to him more than seven years ago and mailed at Orange, N. J., only three miles away.

Geneva.—The republic of Latvia is abandoning the ruble in favor of the franc as its monetary unit. Orders have been placed with a Swiss medal manufacturer for the coinage of 60,000,- 900 francs of nickel-bronze pieces in fractional denominations, 40,000,000 francs in 10 and 20-franc gold pieces and 60,000,000 francs in silver coins.

LOSES IN PRIMARY, GOES BEFORE VOTERS

Valdosta, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Jessie G. Scruggs, of Habersham, defeated in the race for county commissioner of Lowndes county in the September primary, has announced his candidacy for this place in the general election. Mr. Scruggs contested the primary and asked that the Valdosta precinct votes be thrown out because of alleged irregularities in the count.

The Lowndes county executive committee, after hearing the charges, declined to grant Mr. Scruggs' request.

Values Her Husband's Love at $100,000 In Alienation Suit

New York, October 12.—Old though he be, and retired from public life, the love of Edward M. Croker, former chief of the New York fire department and recognized as the man who made fire fighting a science, is worth $100,000 to his wife. She has filed suit for this amount against Miss Helen M. Day, of New York, charging that

Miss Day estranged the aged smoke-eater's affections. The filing of the suit was not publicly known until Miss Day on Wednesday filed a denial and a demand for a bill of particulars. The Crokers separated in 1911. Mrs. Croker's suit contends that Miss Day entered Croker's affections in 1908. Croker has a pension of $6,000 from the city of New York and is head of a fire prevention company here.

that this year's would putrank all others from the viewpoint of crowds, quality of exhibits and entertainment. Friday has been designated as manufacturers' day. Everything made in Georgia, the southeast, and particularly in Atlanta will be on exhibition. Heads of firms from all over the south will be in attendance, and will inspect the array of manufacturing products, working models and appliances that are to be the center of interest.

Fair officials are predicting a truly record-breaking crowd on Saturday—Homecoming day. Week-end visitors are expected to virtually stampede the grounds, if the number of hotel reservations made recently are any indication. Special features will be inaugurated and preparations are being made to handle the expected influx.

The pageant staged by the school children Thursday night will be repeated Friday and Saturday. The rehearsals and the performances are in charge of J. C. Sullivan and his assistants, Miss Gertrude Holvey and Mrs. Charles La Fontaine.

The fair officials have planned free acts in front of the grandstand beginning the first of the week. Chief among the acts billed are "Klatawah" and "The Girl in Red."

The Grand Circuit races will not start until next week. The horses will begin to arrive Sunday from points in the south where races are now in progress. Some of the country's famous running stock and harness horses will be entered in the series of races.

LEMMIE FIRE SALE

Beginning Tomorrow Morning at 8:30 O'Clock

Come one, come all! Buy as liberally as your purse will permit. The two recent Whitehall street fires that destroyed the buildings on both sides and to the rear of this store, fortunately did not seriously injure our stock and building. Except for the burning of the Third Floor, the balance of our store building and stock was unharmed by fire. We have put on a roof, closed the Third Floor for repairs and will be ready for business Saturday. The First and Second Floors have been converted into a perfect windfall of bargains.

Open Till 10 Saturday Night

Whitehall at Viaduct

Some Goods Absolutely Perfect! Some Goods Slightly Smoked! Some Goods Were Wet, Now Dry! Prices Only Were Burned Away

A Liberal Damage has been allowed us by the Insurance Companies, permitting us to dispose of our entire stock at Sale Prices that will be Fairly Astounding.

HALF MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF FIRE SALVAGED GOODS TO GO OUT AT QUICK-MOVING PRICES SATURDAY

Disastrous Fire! Disastrous Prices!

The people of Atlanta know our stock to be all new goods (we have been in business only six months), and, furthermore, we were just in receipt of thousands of dollars' worth of new fall goods, some of which were in no wise damaged, but all of which have been repriced for this sale at ridiculous prices.

Special Notice to Those Holding "Lay-Away" Receipts

Before the fire, many of our customers had made cash payments on goods which we were holding for them, subject to complete cash payments later. Inasmuch as these goods were entirely destroyed by the fire on our third floor, we will reimburse those holding "active lay-away receipts," showing payments during the last sixty days. Please present your receipt to the office on balcony for identification and payment.

LENIENCY URGED FOR WAR VETERAN

Clarence Brown, Disability Patient, Found Guilty of Forging Signature of Another War Veteran.

Clarence A. Brown, 21-year-old veteran of the world war and disability patient of the government, was found guilty of forging the signature of another veteran to a treasury certificate amounting to $215 in United States district court Thursday. Sentence will be imposed by Judge Sibley at 10 o'clock Friday morning, it was announced.

Brown, according to testimony introduced by the prosecution, obtained a treasury check made payable to Edgar D. Parks, a student at the vocational training department of the University of Georgia, forged the name of the payee and cashed the check at an Atlanta establishment.

On the stand in his own behalf Brown related the story of his experiences in the war and the hardships he had suffered since receiving his discharge from the service. Evidence was introduced by C. P. Gore, assistant United States district attorney, which showed that Brown had entered the army in March, 1918, on a draft certificate calling his brother Theodore W. Brown, two years older, and had served until August of the same year under his brother's name, when he was discharged because of physical disabilities.

Brown admitted this deception in entering the army, stating that he had endeavored to enlist several times but had been rejected because of his youth. He applied for disabilities upon his discharge from the army and was drawing compensation from the government. He declared that owing to his rigid training while in the service his health had been impaired and he was unable to do work that required physical strain.

Attorney Fred Harrison represented Brown and urged leniency on the part of the court for the young defendant. He declared that the boy's father had offered to make good the amount of the forged treasury certificate and implored the court to have mercy on Brown.

Judge Sibley announced, following receipt of the verdict, that he would impose sentence on Brown Friday morning.

FAIR DURING FAIR PROMISED TO CITY
BY WEATHER MAN

Glad tidings of great joy for Atlantans come from the weather office. Bright, beautiful weather will last through Saturday, and those who attend the fair may leave their umbrellas and raincoats at home, according to the latest prognostication of the weather man, Mr. Von Herrmann.

Another slight fall in temperature of about 5 degrees is predicted, but there are no indications of any unpleasant weather for the next two days. The highest mark reached by the mercury Wednesday was 66, dropping to 50 degrees Thursday morning.

A light frost in extreme northern portion of Georgia is predicted for Friday morning.

FIELD'S MINSTRELS ARE GUESTS OF ELKS

Proceeding one of the most delightful social hours of the present season, at which the A. G. Field's minstrels were guests, the Atlanta lodge of Elks increased its membership by voting twenty-nine new members into the organization Thursday evening.

The new names which received favorable action included Paul S. Ethredige, Charlie Miller, Fred S. Stewart, A. L. Winn, Charles W. Wilkins, Harry G. Poole, James W. Nash, John C. McCubbin, M. Eisenberg, Joseph A. Mills, Walter L. Gilham, Dr. George W. Kienhoff, Dr. James N. Norris, W. F. Minnich, W. Bouchier, W. M. Wallis, Paul S. Schroeder, Tom R. Talbert, H. L. Dabney, J. E. Collier, John P. Carroll, A. J. Bunch, Edward L. Knopf, Joseph A. Friedman, T. G. Greene, R. Paul Becht, O. E. Hampton, B. Y. Perkins and Clyde A. Helton, Jr.

Historic Quilts Placed on Sale to Buy Monument

More than 100 years ago a pretty North Carolina girl, soon to be married, sat down before her spinning wheel to make the thread with which to sew a patchwork quilt. She planned it to keep the winter's chill away from the pink toes of a son she expected to have some day.

The son was born. He grew up to be Colonel LeRoy McAfee, one of the romantic figures of the war between the states and of reconstruction days, head of the Ku Klux Klan in Cleveland county, North Carolina, and the figure around whom as "Ben Cameron" Thomas Dixon wrote his book, "The Klansman."

Now Colonel McAfee is buried in a little country churchyard in North Carolina and the quilt his mother made for him with loving hands is owned by Mrs. Joe S. Durham, 182 Murphy avenue, Atlanta, his niece.

Mrs. Durham wants to place a fitting monument over the grave of her distinguished uncle, and to do it she is offering the quilt for sale and has it on display at the Southeastern fair in the Art building.

Seven other quilts made before the war between the states, are also on display in Mrs. Durham's booth. All of them have been given the tenderest care as heirlooms by three and four generations of the family and are in perfect condition despite their age.

THIEF TAKES GLASSES OF JUDGE ALEX KING

Right under the noses of secret service operatives of the United States government, a clever thief Thursday invaded the private home of Judge Alex C. King, 325 Postoffice building, and took the small leather brief case which contained the judge's tortoise shell glasses and also valuable papers.

The loss was reported to city detectives, with the request that they cooperate with the federal officers in an attempt to recover the satchel.

Other robberies and losses reported as having occurred some time before daybreak Thursday are as follows: Three 100-pound cans of white lead, five gallons of oil and three gallons of paint were stolen from 40 Clearmont drive, according to information furnished by Thomas James, 1202 Healey building, who expressed the belief that a truck or wagon was used in hauling the stuff away.

Burglars entering the home of Mrs. D. W. Ogletree and Mrs. M. C. O'Shields, 435 Crew street, obtained two ladies' gold wrist watches and a pocketbook containing $45 in currency. Entrance was gained through a side window.

H. E. Dean, of 177 Juniper street, lost a ring set with diamonds and sapphires, while two suits of clothes were stolen from H. L. Rusmer, 108 Trinity avenue.

A suitcase containing a raincoat and wearing apparel for men, also a razor, was taken from the automobile of H. H. Hunt, of 395 Lucile avenue, while the machine was in Auburn avenue.

DR. WHITE TO HEAD MEDICAL EXAMINERS

Dr. A. F. White, of Floriova, Ga., has been named president of the state board of medical examiners, who have just adjourned their fall meeting at the state capital.

Others elected were Dr. George Payne, of Atlanta, vice president; and Dr. C. T. Nolen, of Marietta, secretary and treasurer. About a dozen applicants for licenses to practice medicine in the state were examined. The papers have not been passed on yet. The next examination will be conducted in June, according to Dr. White.

Church Oyster Supper.

The East Side Baptist church will give an oyster supper Saturday at the junction of the Soldiers' Home and East Lake car lines to raise funds for the purchase of pews for the church.

The Junior Baraca class will have charge and the Junior Philatheas will serve. Store space in which the supper will be served was donated by Mrs. H. D. Penner.

National Advertising Men Name Atlantans Officers

W. R. MASSENGALE.

Ernest E. Dallis Elected Secretary and W. R. Massengale, Committee-man of National Advertisers.

Two Atlanta men were signally honored by the American Association of Advertising Agencies which concluded its annual convention in New York city Thursday with the election of Ernest E. Dallis, of the Johnson-Dallis company, general advertising agency, as secretary of the national association, and W. R. Massengale, of the Massengale Advertising agency, as a member of the national executive committee representing the south. It was learned in Atlanta Thursday night in a telegram to The Constitution from James O'Shaughnessy, executive secretary of the association.

Mr. Dallis has the distinction of being the first national officer elected from the south. Mr. Massengale was recently honored by the members of the southern council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies by being elected as chairman of that council for the ensuing year and was installed in office as chairman at a meeting of the council held in the Hotel Ambassador in New York Tuesday.

Shows South's Wealth.
Mr. Dallis, in his report for the committee on the agricultural products brought out the fact that the crops of the southeast to be marketed within the next 90 days would transmit from agricultural products into cash over $2,000,000,000.

The reports of the members of this association showed that the membership placed over $250,000,000 in national advertising during 1922 and represented over 5,600 nationally known advertisers. The convention was one of the most successful ever held in the history of the association.

To Raise Standard.
The American Association of Advertising Agencies is composed of the leading advertising agencies in the country, 134 in number. These advertising agencies are banded together to improve the standards of advertising and merchandising. Their membership is carefully selected and includes only those agencies, whose experience, financial standing and knowledge of the most modern advertising practices are unquestioned.

The election of Mr. Dallis as secretary, and of Mr. Massengale to the executive committee of the A. A. A., is a sign that the advertising profession recognizes the fact that the science of advertising in the south is on the very highest plane, and that the southern advertising agency is today able to give to its clients service unexcelled in any other section.

Massengale Well Known.
Mr. Massengale is at the present time chairman of the southern council of the A. A. A., and has held for several years previous to his election to this office the post of secretary-treasurer. W. R. Massengale is a brother of St. Elmo Massengale, proprietor and founder of the advertising agency which bears his name.

St. Elmo, advertising men well know, was the founder and founder of the southern council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies and one of the organizers of the national association, having a place on the first board of directors after the formation of the A. A. A., and insisted on rotation of office, refusing reelection.

MEETING CALLED TO FIGHT ERECTION OF BIG HOSPITAL

The Buckhead Improvement club will hold a special meeting Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Peachtree Heights Park school for the purpose of protesting against the proposed erection of a hospital on the west side of Peachtree road between Peachtree creek and the Seaboard railroad, according to a communication issued by E. R. Beckwith, chairman of the registration and improvement committee. The site upon which it is proposed to erect the sanitarium has a 300-foot frontage on Peachtree road and all members of the club, together with all residents of the north side who are opposed to the project, are urged to be present.

GEORGIA ASSOCIATION TO ELECT OFFICERS

Waycross, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—The Georgia association will meet at Tifton at 9 o'clock next Wednesday to elect officers and hear the reports of the various committees appointed at the last meeting. The committee met at Ashburn October 10 and the reports now are ready for the organization meeting.

A telegram has just been received from Governor Hardwick endorsing the good work the Georgia association is doing for the state. He says he will be present at the reorganization meeting in Tifton and will make a short address, unless prevented by the illness of his wife. In case he is not present he will send a letter of indorsement to be read, he says.

OLIVER NOMINATED DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Savannah, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Frank M. Oliver, prominent attorney here, was yesterday nominated by the Savannah Kiwanis club to be district governor for the organization. The position will be elected at the state meet of the Kiwanis club to be held in Savannah October 19 to 20.

ERNEST E. DALLIS.

country are sending to W. R. Massengale their congratulations over the signal honor that has been paid him. His legion of Atlanta friends will joy as well in the news of the election. Mr. Massengale and Mr. Dallis will return from New York next week.

OCEAN LIQUOR BAN NOW UP TO COURTS

Washington, October 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Issuance by Federal Judge Hand, in New York, of a temporary order restraining prohibition and customs agents from enforcing the liquor ban against vessels of the American line, was accepted today in government circles as effectively bringing before the courts the question of the authority of the government in this respect.

Failure of counsel for the British owned Cunard and Anchor lines to obtain a similar order was expected to lead to a renewal of their petition, either in New York or some other federal judicial district, with a more detailed showing of the damages which they allege would result from operation of Attorney-General Daugherty's interpretation of the liquor statutes. Promulgation of regulations by Secretary Mellon to carry out the liquor ruling was expected to be automatically postponed by Judge Hand's action. The initial draft of these regulations was laid before Secretary Mellon today but it was indicated several material changes were, in his opinion, desirable before they could be officially approved and distributed. An important phase of enforcement still under discussion was whether foreign vessels convicted of violation of the "transportation section" of the Volstead act would be amenable to the forfeit penalty imposed by that section. Attorney-General Daugherty ruled formally that in such cases the ship, whether a palatial liner or a coastal tramp, would be liable to seizure and sale by the government. Secretary Mellon, however, indicated that such drastic measures would not be required effectively to achieve the purpose of the law, and gave the impression that the penalties imposed at the time at least would be confined to seizure of the illicit cargoes and imposition of fines.

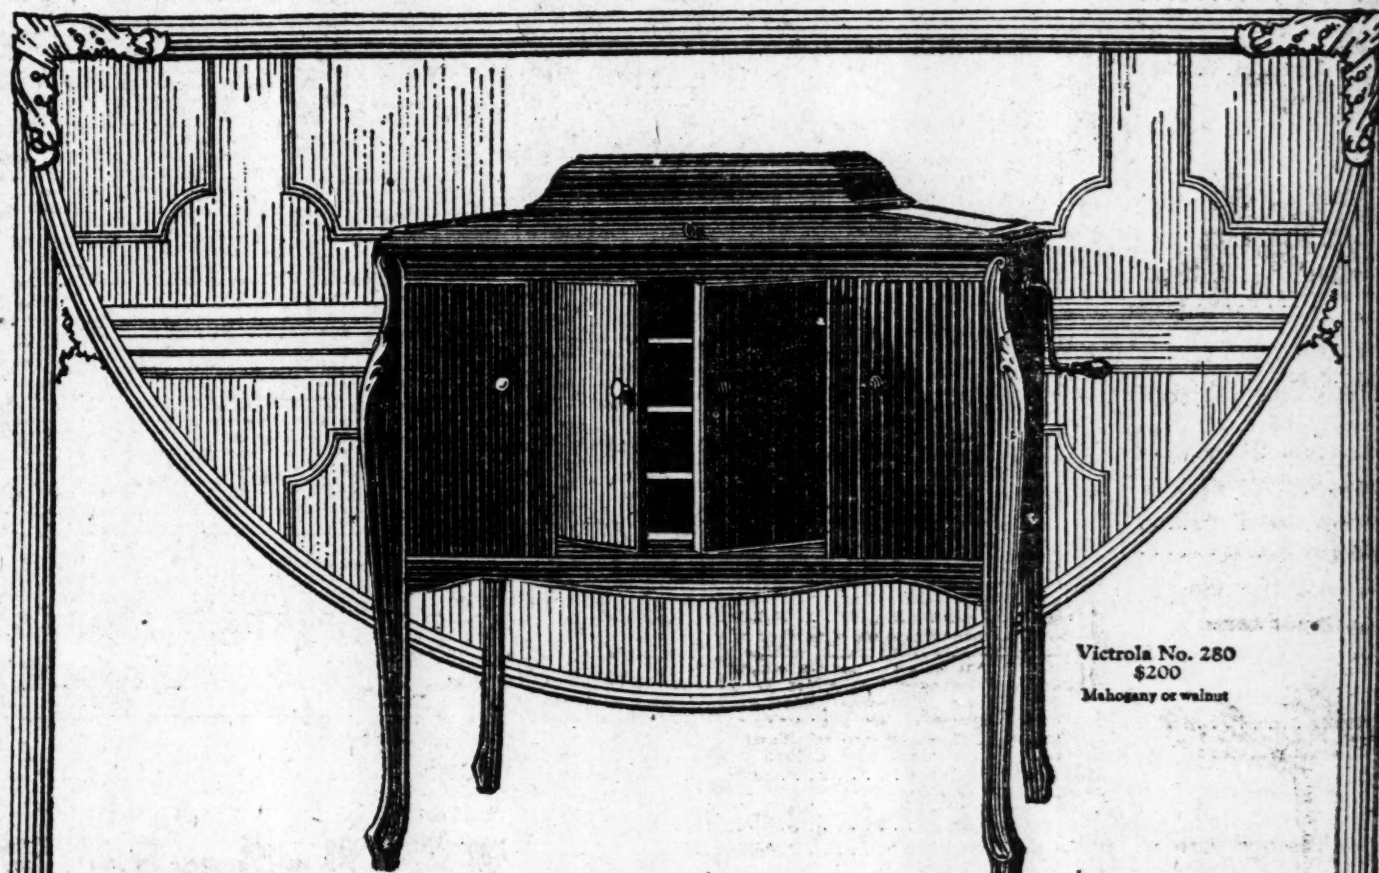

Reports from Paris that French and British shipping interests were preparing to initiate other suits to test the validity of the liquor-on-ships ruling were welcomed at the department of justice as offering additional hope of a speedy determination of the issue in the case the Cunard line's suit should prove defective in some technical element. Officials were under the impression that the "real court fight" would be made on the question of whether the Volstead act infringed on the rights of friendly nations and if so whether an act of congress which had such effect was constitutional.

Mrs. MacGowan Abandons Suits And Disappears

Mrs. Mary Louise DeVoe McGowan, who brought court actions in Los Angeles, Cal., one against her young army officer husband, Captain Hilliard V. McGowan, and another against her father-in-law, abandoned both suits and departed for parts unknown, according to information received in press dispatches from Los Angeles Thursday.

Murder Charge Lodged Against Town Marshal

Dublin, Ga., October 12.—Ernest Bass, 28, marshal of the town of Cadwell, 20 miles from here in Laurens county, is in jail on a charge of murder, growing out of the death of Matthew Burch, 27, of Cadwell, late last night, from pistol wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Bass. The shooting is said to have occurred in a drug store, when both men were behind a prescription counter. They were alone when the first shot was fired, witnesses say. Bass says that Burch fired first. After the first shot both men ran from behind the counter, Bass opening fire again only a few feet away, it is said. Burch ran into the street, where he fell, a 35-caliber long range bullet having passed through his body just below the heart. The morning Bass surrendered to county officers who went to Cadwell.

Mike J. Witman Is Elected Lions' District Governor

Photograph by Francis B. Price.

J. R. Regan, president of the Lions' Club of Atlanta, and the replica of the state capitol which Atlanta Lions presented to Macon Lions Thursday night as the climax to a very original stunt staged in competition with other southeastern Lions' clubs represented at the one-day district convention.

Macon, October 12.—(Special.)—Mike J. Witman, of Macon, was elected district governor of the eighteenth district of Lions' clubs at the first annual district convention here today and Savannah, Ga., was selected as the next convention city. Mr. Witman succeeds H. E. Allen, of Americus, and his jurisdiction comprises the states of Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Governor Allen in submitting his report suggested that each of the three states in the district be made into a separate district. Objection to this plan was raised by Alabama, which state has only two Lions' clubs. The Alabamians took the position that they needed the support of Georgia and Florida until more clubs are formed in that state. It was finally decided to let the district remain as it is at present.

Deputy governors whose election must later be ratified by the international convention were elected today, as follows:

Alabama, Mabem Cammack, Mobile; Florida, R. B. Fox, Orlando, Georgia, E. W. Rosenthal, Savannah.

Savannah Wins.
The fight over the selection of the next convention city was spirited one, with Augusta, Atlanta, Montgomery and Savannah contesting. Montgomery was eliminated on the first ballot, Augusta on the second, and on the third ballot Savannah received 22 votes and Atlanta 18 votes.

Attendance at today's meeting was smaller than expected. Three of the clubs were not represented, there being no representative from the State of Florida. The official delegates from the different clubs represented were: Atlanta—J. R. Regan, J. R. Smith, C. C. Whitaker, Bill Sprattling, John Lonsberg, Joe Wolfe, C. L. Adler, Sam Talley, C. W. Wilkins, Press Huddleston, Augustus George Hains, W. D. Duncan, George Vorhaus, M. C. Barnes, J. C. Talbot, Walter Cortier, Columbus—L. L. McKenney, Macon—George Patterson, Mike Witman, Chas. McAllister, J. Calhoun, O. J. Hart, Clem Powers, Savannah—Neel Baldwin, Martin, Savannah—D. W. Brantley, J. C. Branan, T. R. Sussak, C. H. Finley, Americus—Gordon Howell, H. T. Brookshire, C. M. Hall, A. R. Royal, Mobile—R. M. Shackelford, Mabem Cammack, Montgomery—J. W. W. Bryan, W. R. Hulle, Moultrie—W. W. Bryan, J. F. Norman, R. C. Turner, M. C. Farley. In addition there were a number of unofficial delegates. Social features of the convention included a luncheon at noon today, a banquet this evening at the Danmore, and a dance at the Idle Hour club.

Given "Capitol."

The Atlanta club had announced that it had prepared a stunt, but the gathering was astonished by the appearance of newsways who distributed newspapers, apparently genuine, which asked in bold headlines, "Will Macon Secure the State Capitol Through Secret Efforts of Lions' Club?"

Press Huddleston of the Atlanta club held a copy aloft and brandished such a move by the Macon club as treacherous. He roundly scolded the Macon Lions for "stabbing Atlanta in the back." He then read the article in full, disclosing a "plot" by the Macon club to secure the removal of the capitol. The "extra" charged that President Regan of the Atlanta Lions had been co-operating with the Macon Lions in their surreptitious move.

Then followed a scathing address by Lion J. R. Smith, of Atlanta, who declared that fact that Lionism in Georgia should suffer from such "improper conduct."

Sam Talley, another Atlanta Lion, then made a short conciliatory speech, declaring that the loss of the capitol meant but little compared to the loss in reputation Lionism would sustain if the capitol incident was not settled.

At this moment two Atlanta Lions entered from a hallway, bearing the miniature capitol, lighted brilliantly. On it hung a placard saying "Greetings from the Lions' club of Atlanta to the Lions' club of Macon—and a gift of the state capitol." It is still and the best we can do." Most of the Atlantans attending motored to Macon Thursday morning and will return Friday morning. Several members were accompanied by their wives. Atlanta Lions here are C. C. Whitaker, Sam Talley, L. C. Adler, Roy Mather, Press Huddleston, J. R. Regan, J. R. Smith, Joseph B. Wolfe, Dr. Key, W. D. Sprattling, R. M. Lonsberg, Andy Andrews, L. L. Ferry, C. C. Wilkins, C. C. Keiser and Dr. I. M. Hair.

HIGH SCHOOL SITE TO BE DISCUSSED

is financially interested in property near the offer two suggested sites which has a taxable valuation of $81,800," said Jacobs.

According to Jacobs, he obtained the information as to the property interests of Greenfield from the public reporter. The greater part of the property, he says, is recorded under the name of the Continental Land company, an enterprise in which Greenfield is said to be heavily interested.

Why He Preferred Site.
Preference to the Brown site over the Vanira street and Jackson sites was expressed by Jacobs because of its better transportation advantages. He said that the Brown property on Washington may be reached from eight trolley lines while the other locations can not boast of such splendid facilities.

If the bond commission agrees with the board of education that the Jackson site should be chosen, the matter will be practically settled so far as council is concerned. It is generally predicted, as that body has repeatedly endeavored to reach a solution. The Jackson site consists of a square comprising twenty acres just south of Grant park, bounded by Atlanta avenue, Cherokee avenue, Park avenue and Robinson street.

HAYES EXONERATED IN CHOIR MURDERS

Detective Fitzpatrick, who went for the garments, reported that Mrs. Hall acted "peevish" when he demanded them. Mrs. Hall's lawyer, however, issued a statement saying Mrs. Hall was glad to surrender them.

James Mills was questioned briefly at Prosecutor Stricker's office again this afternoon. State troopers, who have become increasingly active on the case, let it be known that one of the theories now entertained is that the slayings were perpetrated by a party of four—three men and one woman, who travelled in two automobiles. Witnesses told, soon after the slayings were discovered, of hearing two shots and screams near the Phillips farm, and of seeing two automobiles dash down the road.

Unconfirmed reports from Philadelphia today said that the gold watch removed from the minister's pocket had been found in a pawn shop there. Authorities made inquiries by telephone and were informed that a gold watch had shown up in a mysterious manner in a pawn shop, but that there was nothing to connect it with Mr. Hall.

Schneider Collapses.
The blowup of the case against Hayes came as suddenly as did his arrest last Monday, after Schneider had signed a statement accusing him of the slayings.

Schneider suffered a nervous collapse this morning. Then he sent word to Prosecutor Beckman that he had something more to say. When Beckwith tears streaming down his face, that his earlier statement was "all a lie."

He had told the story, he said, to get revenge on Hayes, who he believed, had told stories tending to involve him in the case.

Beckman immediately went before Justice of the Peace Stephen, who had held Hayes for the grand jury, and asked that the murder warrant against him be dismissed. The request was granted.

Cheers Greet Hayes.

When Hayes arrived home he found himself the center of a cheering crowd of several hundred. His mother, who had expressed confidence in his innocence, flung herself into his arms. Hayes helped her tenderly up the porch steps.

At the height of the celebration, John Schneider, father of Hayes' accuser, rushed up onto the Hayes porch, embraced the youth's mother and exclaimed:

"My God, my God—I am glad it is all over."

He then collapsed and was taken into the Hayes home, where Hayes' mother, father, relatives and close friends clustered about the smiling youth and congratulated him.

Raymond Schneider's popularity appeared to go down in proportion as Hayes had gone up. There were mutterings in the welcoming crowd against Schneider. He is still in the Somerset jail being held as a material witness.

STUDY THESE RULES FOR SUCCESS

1. The Familiar Quotations Pastime is open to any man, woman, boy or girl who is a resident of Georgia or adjoining states, except employees or relatives of employees of the Constitution. No entrance fees are required.
2. The Familiar Quotations Pastime consists of sixty pictures, one appearing in The Constitution each day. Each contestant may submit three title answers for each picture, each on a separate answer form. Selection of titles will be found in the Official Familiar Quotations Pastime Catalogue.
3. The Catalogue of Quotations may be consulted at the office of The Constitution, or at any public library in the prescribed territory of this Pastime. Participants may also purchase copies of this Catalogue at the office of The Constitution at 40 cents per copy.
4. Each person may participate only as one contestant, and only in his or her own name. However, each participant may submit as many as six complete sets of title answers. Each set of answers will be judged on its own merits. A duplicate list of the selections submitted should be retained by the contestant for self-checking purposes. Full instructions regarding this duplicate list will appear in The Constitution at the close of the Pastime.
5. Three methods may be followed in preparing answers: (1) Each picture published during the 60 days of the Pastime will be accompanied by an official Answer Form, with blank ruled lines for the inscription of your choice of title. (2) Participants may submit handwritten (not traced) facsimiles of each picture and answer form on sheets of white paper 5 1/2 inches. (3) Quotations may be submitted in the convenient Familiar Quotations Answer Book, sold at 80c per copy.
6. Selections of quotations must not be sent in until the close of the Pastime.

Then each participant is to mail or deliver his own set of selections according to instructions appearing in The Constitution. Quotations may be written with pen or pencil, or typewritten. After the publication of the sixtieth picture, sufficient time will be given contestants to prepare their sets of selections before submitting them.

7. The winners of the Familiar Quotations Pastime will be selected by three judges having no connection with The Constitution. These judges will be persons of the highest integrity and good judgment. It is understood that participants entering the Familiar Quotations Pastime accept their decisions as final and conclusive.

8. The fifteen awards in the Pastime will be made to the fifteen highest ranking answers on the basis of having achieved the most appropriate or "best" selections of quotations. If there is an equality between two or more answers a decision will be made by the judges between the tying answers according to superiority in the following requirements: (a) The least number of incorrect selections (the titles which are not "best"); (b) The relative position of the contestant's "best" answer—whether first, second or third choice. In the event of an ultimate tie, each tied contestant will receive an equal prize.

9. Use exactly the same form and spelling of quotations in your selections as you find listed in the Familiar Quotations Pastime Catalogue.

10. Any contestant may have his friends assist him in selecting titles for the pictures. However, only one prize will be awarded to any one contestant; one will prize be awarded to more than one of any group outside the family, who have worked together. The judges reserve the right to discard any set of quotations not complying with the rules and where unfairness is obvious.

Win a Big Prize

Why not win a BIG prize—the $1,000? Someone is going to get it. Why not you?

This is an easy sort of a hunt-and-find game. Anyone with a few spare hours can play it. No matter how many members there are in your family, each may submit an Answer Book of titles.

You don't have to subscribe to win. This is not a subscription contest. All you have to do is pick titles from the Official Catalogue. No college education is required. A little patience is all that is necessary.

ACES SCORE HIT IN NEW NUMBERS

Offer Newest Tango Selections in Last Night's Program—To Give More New Music.

When Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, took the air last night at 9 o'clock, listeners were delighted. They showed that they were delighted by the numerous calls which Station WGM received during and at the conclusion of the concert by this organization, which is known everywhere as the leading dance orchestra of the south.

Last night, true to his promise, B. H. Warner, director of the Aces, gave listeners two of the latest numbers the Aces have developed. Both came as a result of the numerous requests the Aces have had for the new numbers in which they have been practicing for the last two weeks.

The feature number of the whole program last night was "Conchita," a Spanish selection that was used recently at the Piedmont Driving club for the tango and a number that made as big a hit as any the Aces ever played there.

Another number that is a new Warner arrangement is "Naughty Sweetie Blues," which was introduced by radio last night by the Aces.

Getting back to the other numbers, the Aces played "Dancin' Fool," with the special Warner arrangement, which made such a big hit, when the Aces introduced this number by radio several weeks ago. It is an arrangement that, according to listeners, beats any other they have heard.

For tonight Mr. Warner has arranged another program of special

KIWANIS CLUB OF JACKSON, GA., THANKS WGM

Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, on Thursday received a letter of appreciation from members of the Kiwanis club of Jackson, Ga., for the broadcasting of a Kiwanis address Tuesday evening delivered in the studio of Station WGM by Dr. William Torrence Stuchell, member of the International Kiwanis educational committee and prominent member of the Atlanta club.

The address as received in Jackson was a part of a program on the occasion of the celebration of the anniversary of the Jackson club.

In the communication, W. A. Dozier, president of the Jackson club, says in part:

"It was a rare privilege for us to listen to an address of this kind as a part of our program and we are very grateful to you for having made that opportunity possible."

PIE SALE FOR CHURCH SAID UNAUTHORIZED

A woman who claims to be selling pies for the purpose of raising funds for benefit of Martha Brown Memorial Methodist church has not been authorized to collect funds for the church. It was stated Thursday by Mrs. Paul West, president of the Woman's Missionary society of the church. According to Mrs. West, the news reached her Thursday morning to the effect that a woman was visiting the downtown offices and offering pies for sale to aid some charitable enterprise for the church.

TALENTED ARTISTS ON WGM PROGRAM

Miss Elsa Stenger, Mrs. Stenger and Miss Maude Eberhardt to Give Concert—Deagan Program Given.

Tonight will be another night for Station WGM, and the vast audience of listeners who nightly tune for The Atlanta Constitution's radio programs. While Signor Volpi will not be at the studio of Station WGM and will not take any part in the program listeners will recognize his master hand in selection of the artists to be offered.

Artists on tonight's program from Station WGM will be Miss Elsa Stenger, soprano, and her accompanist, Mrs. George Stenger, and Miss Maude Eberhardt, pianist and teacher in the Mayer Piano school.

All three of these musicians have been heard before from Station WGM—and pleasantly. They have all made places for themselves on the roll of those who have successfully appeared at Station WGM for radio concerts.

Miss Stenger has a sweet soprano voice that was trained by Signor Volpi, and her mother, Mrs. Stenger, is an excellent accompanist. Miss Eberhardt, who is a finished artist in piano work, has prepared an especially delightful program for tonight.

Last night at 8 o'clock listeners heard a remarkably varied program in which four musical artists and one reader were presented. The program was arranged by Mrs. Louise Howard Deagan and those who took part in it besides Mrs. Deagan were: Miss Lucy May Bacon, soprano, a pupil of Miss Margaret Hecht, and a teacher of piano; Mrs. Blanche Albert, accomplished violinist; Mrs. Marjorie Barrett, cellist; and Mrs. John S. Cook, reader.

The numbers by Miss Bacon and Mrs. Deagan, Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Barrett were excellent and presented for the entertainment of listeners a wide variety of program in which semi-classical numbers were featured.

Mrs. Cook gave three readings, one of which was an original poem which she wrote especially for her appearance last night at Station WGM.

The numbers by Miss Bacon were "Rose in the Bud," "Lullabye" from "Joelene," "Sing Me Love's Lullabye" from "Pierrot," and "Tales of Hoffmann" by Offenbach.

For their numbers Mrs. Deagan, Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Barrett played "Panquito," "Dance Fantastique," "La Cinquintaine, Summer Nights," and "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffmann" by Offenbach.

RADIO DEPARTMENT GIVES PROGRAM TONIGHT TO GIVE SPECIAL CONCERTS FOR FAIR

Station WGM to Broadcast Between 3 and 4 O'Clock Every Afternoon—Talk by Official.

During the holding of the Southeastern fair station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, will broadcast a special service between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. This program will be given especially for reception at the Southeastern fair in the booth of the Carter Electric company in the Liberal Arts building, where there is a magnavox and Western Electric loud speaker.

The Carter Electric company in receiving the 3 to 4 program and the concert between 6 and 7 o'clock by Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, will act as the official representative of The Atlanta Constitution.

This afternoon the service for the Southeastern fair will be given with an address by an official of the fair association and musical numbers, among which will be featured several piano solos by M. T. Thomas, formerly of the staff of The Constitution. In addition to the numbers by Mr. Thomas, there will be other instrumental and several vocal selections.

The Carter Electric company will operate the only loud speaking apparatus in the Liberal Arts building, and those interested in radio have been invited by the Carter Electric company and The Atlanta Constitution to hear the program as broadcast from station WGM at the booth of the Carter Electric company.

Plans for the additional broadcast between 3 and 4 o'clock were made only after permission was granted by the executive board of the Atlanta Radio club.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

BY EDWARD N. DAVIS
Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government

LESSON NO. 172.
Radio Dictionary.

Tapering Charge—With reference to storage batteries, this method of charging consists in maintaining the voltage at the terminals of the battery at a constant value during the period of charge. By impressing a constant potential upon the battery, the flow of current automatically decreases from a comparatively large initial value, until at the end of the charging period the current flow is much less than the normal rate. Use of the "tapering charge" method has the advantage of permitting a rapid charge and automatic control of the charging current.

Rectifier—For charging storage batteries, direct current must be used. When only a source of alternating current is available for this purpose it is necessary to employ a "rectifier" to change the current from alternating to direct. This rectification may be accomplished by a motor-generator set, synchronous converter, mercury-arc, or by various forms of tube rectifiers which convert the alternating current waves into a series half-wave unidirectional pulsations.

Potentiometer—A resistance provided with an adjustable contact and so arranged that when the flow of current through the resistance is constant, the voltage drop across a given portion of the resistance is proportional to the amount of resistance in that portion. This form of variable resistance is commonly used in conjunction with a local battery to adjust the flow of current through certain types of crystal detectors. It is also used for obtaining the correct value of biasing potential upon the grid of vacuum tubes.

Microhenry—A practical unit of inductance equal to one-millionth part of a henry and commonly used in radio work to express the inductance value of certain elements in radio circuits. The "centimeter of inductance" which is one one-thousandth of a microhenry, is also used as a measure of small values of inductance.

Fading—Variation in strength of received radio signals from a given transmitting station is a common occurrence and is known as "fading" or "swinging." When this occurs the signals may become much louder than their ordinary intensity and then rapidly decrease in strength until they become inaudible. "Fading" occurs principally on short wave lengths normally under 400 meters and at a distance varying from 10 to 20 per cent of the normal transmitting range of the station from which the waves are radiated.

Ground Antenna—A type of antenna consisting of a single wire or system of wires buried in a trench beneath the earth. The wires are insulated and their length depends upon the length of wave it is desired to receive, longer wires being used for long wavelengths than for short wavelengths. Good results have been obtained in the reception of radio signals from long distances, but for transmitting purposes this form of antenna offers no particular advantages. Signals may also be received from considerable distances by submerging this type of antenna below the surface of salt or fresh water.

THE LETTER "C"

Today's lesson will be the letter "C," which is composed of one dash, one dot, one dash, one dot. "C" is used very frequently, especially by some operators, in sending out "CQ" calls. "CQ" is the official call of inquiry and is an invitation for any station hearing it to answer.

If you can master the few remaining letters of the code and make a perfect copy of the reviews, you should have no trouble in receiving ten words per minute within a short time.

ENGLISH AVENUE LIBRARY PRESENTS FIRST STORY HOUR

The first story hour for the children at the English Avenue branch was held Wednesday afternoon with 215 children present.

The English Avenue branch is the newest branch of the library system, having been opened on July 17. Since the library opened 984 borrowers have joined and during the last month 227 books were issued. In addition to this a great deal of reference work was done with the school children in the building, the librarian working in close co-operation with the principal and teachers of English Avenue school.

The schedule of the story hour in the different branches is as follows: English Avenue branch, Wednesday afternoon; Oakland City branch, Monday afternoon; Oakland City branch, Tuesday afternoon; Anne Wallace branch, Wednesday afternoon, and at the main library on Friday afternoon.

Miss Jessie Reynolds tells the stories at the main library, Oakland City and English Avenue, and Miss Henriette Massingale at the branch and Anne Wallace branch.

$1,000,000 CAMPAIGN OPENED BY ALABAMA

The million-dollar campaign for "A Greater University of Alabama" will be carried into Atlanta Friday among the important visitors to the Exposition, along with the coming of the Crimson Tide to stack up against the Golden Tornado on Grant field Saturday afternoon.

The campaign for the university opening Thursday night with advance subscriptions amounting to $223,325, including one anonymous subscription of $50,000. Since then the students and faculty of the university alone have added more than $70,000 to this fund, thus passing the quarter mark of the million-dollar goal in one week's time.

One of the chief objects of the campaign is to build more girls' dormitories, since 51 girls were turned away from the school last year on account of lack of dormitory space, and a dormitory built to accommodate 170 girls is now crowded with 215. Men students at the university are each contributing $250 to the campaign fund, the girls are each giving $100, and the minimum of alumni subscriptions is $500.

Plans for a gala evening are being prepared for Friday night when an alumni dinner will be given in the Piedmont Driving club, according to Mr. Allen. It is expected that Judge W. W. Brandon, governor-elect of Alabama and alumnus of the university, will be in Atlanta for the dinner and game, Dr. George W. Denny, president of the university, will be on the program, and other speakers of the evening, and Borden Burdett, state chairman of the campaign, and J. L. Cahan, Birmingham chairman, will be present.

Success Lecture.

Mrs. Rose M. Asby will lecture on "The Psychology of Success and Prosperity" Saturday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. in the room of the Carnegie library. All who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

A FEARFUL RESPONSIBILITY

Fresh from a protracted tour of Europe and the Near East, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., speaking before the Yale Club in New York, openly charged that the United States "as a Christian nation had failed to meet its responsibilities" to humanity, and implored "this government to take immediate action" looking to the prevention of further slaughter of Christians by the Turks.

When the professional politician, seeking to win votes by appealing to mock patriotism, to prejudice and to ignorance, is confronted by a conscientious realization of the shameful consequences of our "splendid isolation," and does not know how else to justify his position, his stock recourse lies in asking if we are to send more of our boys abroad to be shot to settle European quarrels.

Such "argument" is specious, and without foundation. It is demagogic, pure and simple.

If this nation—the greatest exponent of democratic and humanitarian principles and the creditor nation of the world—had assumed its part in the world-wide movement to restore international peace and order and good will following the great war, it would not have been necessary for us to have sent a ship nor a soldier across the Atlantic, nor would that policy have cost us a dollar! On the other hand it would have been a richly paying investment.

All that was necessary for us to have done was to have demonstrated our good faith by the inspiration of our presence in the effort to restore world-wide peace and order. In those councils the United States, as the foremost power in the family of nations, would have exerted an influence so great as not to require backing by bayonets or bullets!

It was never expected that we should do more than to point the pathway out of the world-wide wilderness of post-war confusion, chaos and distress, and to lend the constructive power of our counsel and advice to the nations with which we had made common cause on the battlefield.

If our participation in this manner had proved unavailing we could then consistently and appropriately have said, in effect, to the nations of Europe: "You must excuse us from further activities in your councils until you have put your house in order by your own efforts. We have tried to help you; we have made every effort to co-operate with you in the solution of your problems; you have rejected our suggestions and we refuse to go further with you."

With good grace and with a clear conscience we then could have retired.

There never was a suggestion that we should furnish a ship or a soldier for service overseas during the period of reconstruction.

And had such a suggestion subsequently been made, our answer very easily could—and undoubtedly would—have been: "Thus far shall we go, but no farther!"

Instead of manifesting friendly concern in the affairs of our suffering fellow nations, and instead of even offering to help them in their plight—and in which plight we had helped to place them—we put ourselves in the attitude of saying to them: "We helped put you in your present straits, and having got most of your gold, we have no further interest in you, and it is up to you to work yourselves out of your predicament the best you can!"

As Bishop Cannon truthfully said, "as a Christian nation, failed to meet our responsibilities!"

There have been indirectly exposed sible for the murder of hundreds of thousands of innocent Christians, by the Turkish barbarians, to say nothing of the horrors that have taken place and are still taking place in the famine regions of Europe and Asia Minor!

Not a life would have been lost, though, in the Turkish massacres of the Near East since the war if we had played our part toward the restoration of hundreds of thousands of Christians.

The south has seen its cotton decline in value from 40 to 20 cents a pound—cotton which would today be selling at top-notch prices if we had done our duty as the premier national spokesman for democracy and as the creditor nation of the world!

We have seen the markets of Europe closed to our surplus products of all kinds, for the reason that Europe has had no money with which to buy and cannot get it until European financial, commercial, industrial and economic stability is restored; and that cannot be done until we do our part to that end.

Our failure to meet our responsibilities, as Dr. W. P. King, editor of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, declares in a communication elsewhere upon this page, constitutes "the blackest blot on American history," and not only has it caused immeasurable suffering abroad, but it is levying a tax burden upon every American freeman!

No man carries a bale of cotton to market but who has a right to make the charge that the attitude of this country toward the balance of the world has levied upon his cotton a tax equal to the difference between its market value today and what its value ought to be, and would be if the European demand had not been destroyed.

MOCKING THE LAW.

A prominent citizen of Chattooga county, Ga., expressing indignation over the recent "escape" of Clint Mathis from the chalingan in Bibb county, writes The Constitution:

"We read the report in The Constitution of the escape of Clint Mathis. We also learned that he had been made a trusty—to our great surprise. "From observation up here we deduct the following conclusion: "Friday before the escape of Mathis the following Sunday, one Frank Maxey carried Jim Mathis, the father of this boy, down to Bibb county in a high-powered car. The supposition is that something was done in getting Clint out and that he changed apparel, got into the car with Maxey and his father, and turned loose in the mountains up here.

"To say the least, there is suspicion of some sort of shenanigan in the matter or else gross negligence and a shameful disregard of the laws of our country.

"The crime was a most heinous one and the result was a frail widow left with a house full of small children to support. She has been a physical wreck since the murder.

"Why would a man guilty of such a crime be made a trusty? Who is the responsible party, or parties, in this matter? So much suspicion surrounds the matter that the proper authorities should make a thorough investigation of it and the guilty ones made to suffer for turning loose such a criminal upon the public.

"The whole thing is an outrage and a disgrace to the state of Georgia."

Mathis was serving a life sentence for first degree murder, committed near Summerville, Ga., in January, 1921.

Last Sunday he was reported to have "disappeared," and to be "headed toward his old haunts (in North Georgia) in a high-powered automobile."

If this were an exceptional instance in which a convicted felon had escaped the penalty to which a Georgia court had sentenced him the criticism expressed by our correspondent might be measurably discounted; but it is not!

As a matter of fact, it seems to have become a common practice for the prison authorities of Georgia to make "trusties" of imprisoned murderers and other grave offenders against the law.

Numerous instances of this kind have recently been called to the attention of the public—instances in which even murderers sentenced to life imprisonment have not only been given the usual "trusty" privileges, but access to and the use of automobiles, being permitted virtually to go "joy-riding" about the country under the pretext of running errands for their keepers.

Such a practice makes a mockery of the law; and it is an outrage against public decency!

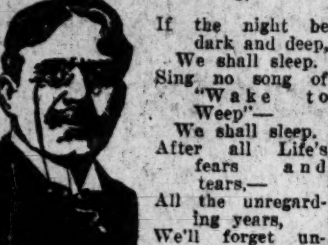

Society is, indeed, in grave peril when, after a criminal is tried, convicted, and sentenced to pay the penalty prescribed by the law, a subordinate can with impunity set him free.

It is high time for public sentiment to take cognizance of this practice and demand that it be stopped!

The good people of Chattooga county have ample justification for characterizing this so-called escape as "an outrage and a disgrace to the state of Georgia!"

Unless the decrees from courts are to be enforced we might as well abolish them!

"Squirrels Make Good Actors in the Movies," says the headline to an animal picture story. They ought to fit admirably into "nutty" roles.

THE CHILD AND THE AUTOMOBILE

(From The Springfield (Mass.) Republican)
The shocking frequency with which children are killed by automobiles has caused efforts to protect them in various ways, but not too much can be expected of them. So long as babies are allowed to play in the streets and young boys and girls remain what they are, impulsive and thoughtless, accidents are inevitable in spite of all the care the driver can take. The conscientious automobilist feels a great deal of responsibility for the safety of children, regardless of what they may do. He knows that they are apt to do the unexpected thing, and he brings his car under complete control whenever it is passing children to throw themselves in its way.

But even then accidents happen and the wonder is that there are not more of them. There are many streets that swarm with children of all ages. Along Water street, for example, they are running about the street all the time. Infants play in the roadway and that they can live to grow up is a marvel. Particularly in the dusk of the evening it is difficult to see them. The duck-skinned children darting about, but somehow they are rarely hit by the automobile that is constantly passing.

A dangerous practice has sprung up among school children of holding up automobiles for rides to or from school. If the driver is incautious enough to stop, the children instantly swarm all over the car, clinging on in dangerous positions to spite of the protests of the driver.

Another element of danger lies in boys allowing automobiles to come as close to them as they dare of actually compelling machines to stop, knowing that the drivers are bound to do so, whether the boys are of blame or not. But even though the law is broken, the responsibility still rests upon the child. Parents also have a responsibility, and a child not having reason and judgment, cannot be expected to do the rational thing. Parents also have a responsibility, and a child not having reason and judgment, cannot be expected to do the rational thing.

Questions and Answers Regarding Senate Campaign and the Primary.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Scores of letters and telegrams have reached my desk making inquiries about different phases of the senatorial race and the special primary called for October 17 and 24, the latter primary becoming necessary only in the event of no nomination in the first primary.

The campaign is necessarily a short one, and coming as it did unexpectedly and out of the ordinary, there is evidently considerable confusion on many subjects, judging from the inquiries covering such a wide range. It is impossible to handle all of these letters, and specific replies to each; and it is not essential to do so, as a great many of them cover the same general subject matter.

I have therefore compiled the questions briefly, and have, I trust, given the answers succinctly and briefly. First—What are the home addresses of the various candidates, postoffice and counties?

Governor Hardwick lives in Atlanta, where he was engaged in the practice of law at the time of his election to the governorship. His legal address, however, is Sandersville, Washington county. Judge Walter F. George lives and practices law in Vienna, Dooly county. Seaborn Wright lives on the top of Lookout mountain in Tennessee, but maintains his legal residence at Rome, Floyd county, Georgia. John T. Boileau and John R. Cooper live in Macon, Bibb county.

Second—Is it true, as reported, that the home of Senator Harris and the home of Seaborn Wright, now candidate, are in the same congressional district, and do they live in adjoining counties?

Yes, they are both from the seventh district and live in adjoining counties. Senator Harris' home being Cedartown, in Polk county. Third—Was Judge George a member of the court of appeals, or the supreme court? And did he voluntarily resign?

Judge George began his public service first as solicitor general. He then was elected superior court judge. He was appointed to the court of appeals and was later advanced to the supreme court. He voluntarily retired from the latter to resume the practice of law and look after his private banking and other interests at Vienna, where he has resided all his life.

Fourth—How long did Governor Hardwick serve in the United States senate?

Four years. He was nominated by a convention in Macon in 1914, and was defeated for re-election to a full term in the primaries of 1918 by William J. Harris.

Fifth—How many elections will be necessary and what will be the costs involved if Governor Hardwick is elected to the senate now?

That was partially answered in a former story, replying to earlier inquiries, except that I failed to state that a state-wide primary would also be necessary. That is to say, by law there cannot be a special election, and in conformity with democratic principles, the state executive committee will also have to call a special primary. Therefore, there will be for governor, for the unexpired term, in the event Governor Hardwick is elected to the senate, a state primary, a state election and a special session of the assembly. The costs involved can only be estimated. Governor Hardwick has figured that $8,000 will cover the expense of a special session of the assembly, and an election will cost possibly around $20,000. Therefore, $50,000 should cover all the expenses, all told. The state treasury, of course, will only have to meet the expense of the special session and the special election. The executive committee must provide some way for the expense of the special primary.

Sixth—How long has a United States senator elected by the people? It has probably been fifty years since Georgia elected a senator south of a line drawn east and west through Macon. However, I do not know the exact number of years.

Seventh—Will every county in Georgia hold a primary on the 17th? It is to be hoped so, in the interest of fairness and justice to all candidates; and the friends of all candidates in every election district in the state should see that the boxes are opened and legally manned, even if it is necessary to do so by voluntary help or by subscription, in the absence of funds available for that purpose. It is a great mistake that the state does not assume the financial responsibility of conducting primary elections.

Eighth—Are any of the candidates Catholics? No. I do not know the individual Protestant faith of any of them, however. In a statement from Congressman Upham I see that Judge George is the teacher of a Baptist Sunday school class. I presume he must be a Baptist.

Ninth—Is Governor-elect Walker supporting any candidate? He had been outspoken in the advocacy of Judge G. H. Howard before the latter withdrew from the race and took up the active direction of the campaign of Judge Walter F. George. My information is he is supporting Judge George.

Tenth—Is Commissioner J. J. Brown supporting any candidate? My information is he is supporting Judge Walter George.

Eleventh—Whom is Herbert Clay, who announced as a candidate and then withdrew, supporting for senator? Whom did he support for governor?

My information is he is supporting Governor Hardwick for the senate but that he supported Clifford Walker for governor.

Twelfth—Is it true that Seaborn Wright is a Hoke Smith leader? Whom did he support for governor September 13, and whom did Barry Wright, his son, support?

Seaborn Wright has always been classed as a Hoke Smith leader. My information is he did not vote for governor. My further information is that Barry Wright, his son, was the Floyd county campaign manager for Governor Hardwick in the 13th of September primary.

Thirteenth—How long is the unexpired term of the late Senator Watson?

It runs until March 4, 1927. Fourteenth—Whom are the Watson followers lined up behind in the present race?

I think all of the candidates will get some of this vote. I understand The Columbia Sentinel, the late Senator Watson's newspaper, now owned by Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Lytle, will appear this morning with an editorial endorsement of Judge Walter George. State Senator Boykin, a friend of the late Senator Watson, is one of the campaign managers for Seaborn Wright.

Fifteenth—Can a white republican vote in the primary? Only by pleading to support the primary nominee in the general election. This pledge is printed on the back of the official ballots.

Sixteenth—When will the successor of Senator Watson take his seat? At the first convening of congress after the 7th of November, the date of the general election.

Seventeenth—When can we address politics in Georgia for a time? The Lord knows! I believe the above about covers all of the questions in the correspondence before me.

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution)

THE PRESIDENT COULDN'T SLEEP.

The president of a great railroad found himself losing weight, falling behind in his work—as he fondly called it—depressed, vaguely alarmed or fearful of some impending evil, fagged out, run down, auto-intoxicated, nervous—oh, he had a complete vocabulary to describe his trouble, mostly puppy words. Presently he consulted his family doctor. I'm afraid the family doctor had not learned to pat the patient. At any rate he took the man seriously, mistaking the puppy words for real dog, and gracefully referred him to a neurologist.

Now a neurologist is an anomalous creature, a survival from a past era, a doctor of few words, but those few are simply awful for the layman and their utterance leaves the ordinary doctor practically inarticulate. The neurologist tested the president's patellar and pupillary reflexes (I mention these just to give a faint flavor of the neurological atmosphere), considered the patient's enormous responsibilities (one of which was digging turf on a nine-hole golf course), and concluded that the man was on the verge of a "nervous breakdown."

So off went the president—on an expedition, as might properly have been called, he went away to one of the greatest sanitariums in the country to recuperate and rest, or rest and recuperate. He first tried to recuperate. But no. The sanitarium doctors tried all their best lines of treatment on him, from shockless electricity to waterless baths, yet he could not rest nights. One day when he came out of the mud puddle the attendant hosing him off noticed a slight breaking out on the president's exquisite skin, and reported this to the doctors. They looked at the rash and opined it was insignificant, although the president now complained that the rash itched a great deal.

He firmly believed it was due to uric acid in his system, and the sanitarium doctors could not say him nay.

The more they dieted and bathed the president the more he seemed to sour on the treatment. The itching now obsessed him and he insisted on consulting an eminent skin specialist in a city miles away. The skin specialist pronounced the rash trifling and the president back to the sanitarium for further correction of his itch, scabies, and if the president would permit the doctor to treat him with one night for ordinary itch.

Two days later the president was back at his desk, well. That was awkward, and he still swears feelingly about it.

Well, this sort of thing went on for weeks. The obstinate president had not yet had his fill of skin specialists. He selected a third in a still more distant town, and presented himself and his skin trouble. This third skin specialist is pretty blunt. He made the president strip naked, and he studied the skin lesions very intently, and then told the president he had a common itch, none of the others had been so cranky about that. Benefits of Compensation Act Should Be Extended to City Employees Injured in Public Service

Editor Constitution: I read with much interest your editorial on the death of R. H. Spearman, a member of the Atlanta fire department, in your issue of Wednesday.

If the beneficent provisions of the workmen's compensation act were extended to firemen and policemen it would not be necessary for the public to be called upon to contribute to a fund to provide the necessities of life for the widow and daughter of this unfortunate young man. The industrial commission held that policemen and firemen were city employees in contemplation of the act, but the courts in a policeman case decided to the contrary, holding that policemen are public officers and not employees. Most of the courts have classified firemen and policemen as being engaged in a governmental function and therefore outside of the provisions of the compensation acts.

In line with the decision of the court of appeals with reference to policemen, and various decisions, not only in Georgia, but in other states with respect to governmental functions, the industrial commission recently had to decline compensation to the humble driver of a garbage cart. This case has now gone to the courts and a final decision is awaited.

Hard to Draw Line.
It has been suggested that as the line is very hard to draw between governmental and administrative functions of a municipality, some case should be carried to the courts with a request that the supreme court review a number of these early decisions and recall them so as to more clearly define the line between governmental and administrative functions. It has seemed to a number of people that much more stress has been laid upon governmental function than is warranted. This is said in no possible criticism of the courts, but if a number of these decisions could be recalled no injustice would be done any one. On the other hand, if there were more latitude in such matters, the compensation act could be administered with much more freedom. In the meantime the city of Atlanta can very quickly remedy the matter by simply passing an ordinance accepting firemen, policemen, sanitary employees and others as being within the governmental function as city employees and thus bring them under the act. That will enable all of them to draw compensation under the Georgia law, which is the right of every citizen of the state.

In the case of Mrs. Spearman, if this had been agreed to, she would receive $100 funeral expenses and $12.75 per week for 300 weeks for the use and benefit of herself and daughter, or a total of $3,825. Recently a member of the city council wrote me with reference to policemen and fire

The French government is planning to spend about $800,000,000 over a period of fifteen years in building 18,000 miles of railroads in Africa.

SENTINEL TO AID GEORGE IN RACE

Candidacy to Be Indorsed in Special Edition Out Friday, Mrs. Lytle Announces.

Thomson, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—The Columbia Sentinel, personal organ of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, will unequivocally support Judge George in the Georgia senatorial race, and will come out in an extra edition Friday recommending his candidacy to the followers of Mr. Watson. This was the announcement made tonight by Mrs. Lytle, managing editor of The Sentinel.

COOPER SPEAKS TO PIKE VOTERS IN SENATE RACE

Zebulon, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Declaring that he is a state rights democrat and as such is making the race to fill the seat made vacant by the death of United States Senator Thomas E. Watson, John R. Cooper, well-known Macon attorney, addressed voters of Pike county here Wednesday.

"I will support the constitution of my country and stand for the liberty of the American citizen," said Mr. Cooper. "I am in favor of every man worshipping God according to the dictates of his conscience. I am also in favor of organized labor."

Mr. Cooper said he wanted a chance to "make good and follow in the footsteps of the great men who have gone there before." He said he was in favor of freedom from arrest without a warrant, and in favor of freedom from being indicted by a grand jury guaranteed by the fourth amendment to the constitution. He said that if elected he will introduce a bill to make it a crime for a revenue officer to invade a man's home and arrest him without a warrant.

AGNES SCOTT ASKING DAY STUDENTS' HOME

The necessity of a day students' home on the Agnes Scott campus was emphasized Thursday by Miss Nannette Hopkins, dean of the institution. At the present time the day students, who are the majority of the students who live in their own homes instead of the college dormitories, are conducting a campaign for a $3,000 fund to erect a cottage for their campus home.

SAVANNAHANS TO GO TO PORTS MEETING

Savannah, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Savannah will be represented at the annual meeting of the Southern Atlantic Ports association to be held in Wilmington, October 14, it was announced today. The ports to be represented besides Savannah are Jacksonville, Brunswick, Charleston and Wilmington. Important export rate questions and especially these rates from the mid-west through the South Atlantic ports will be the great matters for consideration at the approaching conference.

VALDOSTA KIWANIS PLAN TRADE WEEK

Valdosta, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—The Kiwanis club has arranged for a Kiwanis trade week for the week of November 6 to 11. It is planned to have a special program for each day and the Kiwanis club has already signed a contract with a high-class amusement company for the week. Many of the leading merchants will put on special sales of fall and winter goods and the program for the week will end with a great Armistice day celebration.

Ghostly Drama Proves Big Hit At N.Y. Theater

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER, United News Staff Correspondent. New York, October 12.—The Theater Guild has done it again. This time with a melodrama so ghostly that you come out of the Garrick saying: "What a great play!"

The Guild's first production that season is another of those Teutonic fantasies, this one conceived in morbidness and dedicated to the deplorable proposition that the world do move. It is called "R. U. R." which means "Rossum's Universal Robots" and a robot is a synthetic being made in the image and likeness of man but without man's soul or ambition or consciousness of sex. Old Doctor Rossum, whose laboratory work achieved this creature, was impelled by no other force than the ever-seeking curiosity of the scientist. But the formula which he bequeathed to mankind led into erring hands and eventually wrought the doom of the human race.

Millions Made. In time the formula becomes the property of a company whose young and altruistic manager desires to relieve mankind forever from the humiliation of toil, as he puts it, by replacing the workers with robots—universal robots, all alike. Millions of robots are turned out of the factories—creatures of flesh and superhuman strength who are neither slaves because they lack intelligence nor can machines for they can and do comprehend. And just as the millennium is spotted this side of the offing, the human race divides into nothing. At the same time there come disquieting rumors of rebellion among the millions of robots now serving man throughout the world. The European governments have been using armies of robots in their wars but a robot has no power of resentment and only kills whom he is told to kill. The rebellion therefore seems incredible to the makers of Rossum's universal robots until Doctor Gall, one of their number, owns up that he has been trifling with the formula of intelligence. The product, turning out to be intelligent robot and trying to produce a fertile robot—just for the devil of it, this explains the rebellion just in time to let the little group know why they are being killed, as all of them are except old Mr. Alquist, the toiling head of the works department who is spared because he works with his hands.

An epilogue discloses this old man alone in the office, the last human being on earth and unhappy in this distinction. For years he has been trying to rediscover the formula but he is not a scientist and he despairs. The robots are dying off throughout the world, a delegation calls on him to find the secret. They have been trying to manufacture their kind but the flesh will not adhere to the bone nor the skin to the flesh. He tells them the worst: it is hopeless. And just at the certain the situation is saved. A male robot betrays an unmistakable tenderness toward a female robot and she toward him.

"Adam" and "Eve"

"Go, Adam!" the old man cries, sending them away arm in arm. "Go, Eve!" Basil Sydney, who played opposite Doris Keane in the London production of "Romance," gives a distinguished portrayal of the general manager, and the rest of the cast except some of the robots, are superb. The Theater Guild's usual standard of excellence.

"After flitting for a year, Katinka, the fascinating little figure who played the mechanical music box in Morris Gest's 'Chauve Souris,' is married to the equally popular captain of husars in the parade of the wooden soldiers which is the co-star number of this strange Russian vaudeville. Gest this week produced the first program of the Russian artists and unannounced the two most popular features of the performance by writing in a wedding scene which enables him to preserve both.

New Russian Show.

The Shubert, perceiving that the Gest show was about to start another season, brought on a rival group of Russian artists in a show at the Booth theater called the "Revue Russe." It is very much like the "Chauve Souris" in a broad way, and apparently there is an eager appetite for such theatrical caviar when it is served as well as these two attractions.

FATHER-IN-LAW'S SLAYER IS FREED BY HOUSTON JURY

Perry, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) William Watson, who went on trial Wednesday on charge of murdering his father-in-law, Joe B. O'Neal, today was acquitted by the jury in Houston superior court.

Watson, his wife and children had been living with O'Neal since March of this year, Watson working the crop and attending to the stock on the farm.

The killing occurred August 3 in the door of O'Neal's store in Byron. The father-in-law had ordered Watson to leave his place, and the latter had replied that he did not have the money on which to leave. Watson said he struck O'Neal in the head with a large belt, swung from a string when the latter advanced upon him with a chair. O'Neal died at the Macon hospital two days later, of a fractured skull.

ANTI-PARKING PLANS ARE UP AT ALBANY

Albany, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) No city in Georgia has wider streets than Albany, but only two other cities have more automobiles in proportion to population than Dougherty county, and the parking problem on Albany business streets is becoming acute.

HARRINGTON WANTS EARLY CONFERENCE

British Commander to Urge Powers for Early Convening of Near East Peace Parley.

Constantinople, October 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief here, will press the allied powers for an early convening of the peace conference, which he believes will be the most important council of world powers since the Versailles. It is expected that the deliberations will require from two to three months as the questions for decision are of the widest importance, including the vital interests of all of Europe, and will likely involve many matters outside the Near East.

Allied authorities here will oppose the selection of Smyrna or Constantinople for the conference. Major-General Sir Frederick B. Maurice, discussing this subject today, said: "It is imperative that a neutral city be chosen. Smyrna and Constantinople are impossible on account of the atmosphere of hostility, intrigue and racial religious animosities, which would surround the delegates. Smyrna, with its background of fire, famine and fury, its air poisoned with undigested hatreds and the populace still delirious from the victories of the army, is wholly unsuited to attract the dove of peace. Constantinople under the occupation of allied armies is no neutral ground. Even Italy is inappropriate because Italy is a party to the negotiations and is technically one of the adversaries of Turkey."

Many Interested. The allied representatives will probably suggest Bern, Zurich or Geneva, all of them, cities free from the objections and comparatively near at hand. The conference will vitally interest all the great nations of Europe. Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, the gathering will receive the undivided interest of Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Russia.

American interests will center in the arrangements for continuation of commercial agreements and the so-called capitulations, as well as protection of the Christian minorities and the right of religious and educational missionaries to carry on their work. The United States occupies a preeminent position throughout the Near East in all educational, humanitarian, missionary and relief activities, and the security of these institutions with their property investments of more than $100,000,000 must be guaranteed.

Perhaps, the most important question before the conference will be that of the world. A delegation of representatives covering the rights of foreigners in Turkey and providing for their government under the laws of their own country instead of the Turkish laws and trial by their own consular courts.

Turk Demands.

"Our delegates will demand abolition of the capitulations," said Hamid Hey, the Kemal representative today, "they are humiliating and oppressive to the best interests of our people. Foreigners thereby occupy a preferential position and enjoy privileges denied to our citizens. The Turkish government has hampered the legislation, justice and finance of the country. Is not Turkey now an independent country with the full rights of an independent nation?"

The American government will oppose these demands.

Lady Duff Gordon, Famous Modiste, Is Now Bankrupt

BY RALPH H. TURNER, United News Staff Correspondent. London, October 12.—Lady Duff Gordon, founder of "Lucile's, Ltd.," famous internationally as a modiste and fashion designer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy and claims she is penniless.

Beginning as a seamstress in a bare little workshop, she built up a business with exclusive shops in London, Paris, New York, Chicago and other large cities, which brought nearly a million dollars a year. But she says she has been discharged from the business she created and is now thrown on the world without a cent.

QUOTES PROVERB AFTER WHIPPING HER SON-IN-LAW

Augusta, Ga., October 12.—A family edition of the Biblical proverb, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap," was related today in a domestic court when a mother told how she had avenged her married daughter and given her son-in-law a dose of his own medicine, beating him as he is alleged to have beaten his wife.

The story was told the court by Mrs. Eunice Allen, who said that a day or so ago Lonnie Altman, her son-in-law, came home from work and beat his wife so badly that she has since been confined to bed. Upon hearing the news, Mrs. Allen says she and her two unmarried daughters, Miss Margie Lee Allen and Miss Otis Allen, went to call on Altman. Finding him not at home they awaited his return, she stated, and when he came in they locked all the doors, and while the two daughters held him, she administered a sound punishment with a hammer.

WHISKY TAX LIENS FOUGHT AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., October 12.—Savannah attorneys for H. H. Burger and R. Ginsberg have filed suits in the federal court in Atlanta against T. Rose, internal revenue collector, to require him to cancel tax liens which have been recorded in the superior court at Savannah against the property of the complainants. The parties named were arrested for handling liquor and were fined.

Lady Duff Gordon, Famous Modiste, Is Now Bankrupt

BY RALPH H. TURNER, United News Staff Correspondent. London, October 12.—Lady Duff Gordon, founder of "Lucile's, Ltd.," famous internationally as a modiste and fashion designer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy and claims she is penniless.

Beginning as a seamstress in a bare little workshop, she built up a business with exclusive shops in London, Paris, New York, Chicago and other large cities, which brought nearly a million dollars a year. But she says she has been discharged from the business she created and is now thrown on the world without a cent.

QUOTES PROVERB AFTER WHIPPING HER SON-IN-LAW

Augusta, Ga., October 12.—A family edition of the Biblical proverb, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap," was related today in a domestic court when a mother told how she had avenged her married daughter and given her son-in-law a dose of his own medicine, beating him as he is alleged to have beaten his wife.

The story was told the court by Mrs. Eunice Allen, who said that a day or so ago Lonnie Altman, her son-in-law, came home from work and beat his wife so badly that she has since been confined to bed. Upon hearing the news, Mrs. Allen says she and her two unmarried daughters, Miss Margie Lee Allen and Miss Otis Allen, went to call on Altman. ## SIKI REFUSES TRIP TO U. S.

New York, October 12.—Information from Paris that Battling Siki, who recently defeated Georges Carpentier and won the light heavyweight championship of the world, has decided not to come to the United States caused a surprise in sporting circles as the Senegalese was booked for a bout here November 30 with an unnamed opponent.

Tex Rickard, who announced that he had closed negotiations with M. Helliers, Siki's manager, for the bout, could not be reached, but his partner, Frank Flounoy, expressed complete surprise. He said it seemed improbable to him that Siki would attempt to break an agreement made by Helliers.

"Whether his contract with his manager expired November 30, as your cable states," Mr. Flounoy said to The Associated Press, "is of no consequence, because Siki is bound by what arrangements M. Helliers makes while that contract is in effect. We shall expect Siki to come here."

It will be possible for Siki to fight in New York November 30 and return to Paris to meet Jack Dempsey in a heavyweight championship bout in December. Flounoy said provided the Senegalese cared to fight twice.

It was reported here that Dempsey and Jack Kearns, his manager, were expected to arrive in San Francisco today, and efforts to verify the report that offers had been made for a title bout in Paris were unsuccessful.

DAHLONEGA PLAYS R. M. A.

Dahlonega, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Captain Brookshire and his fighting Blue Jackets, having returned from Mercer are preparing to meet the strong Riverside Military eleven here Saturday. Coach Baker will probably start the same lineup he used at Mercer in San Francisco's game. He expects a hard and stiff fight from the cadets, though he will use some of his second string men in the latter part of the game.

Captain Brookshire, Dahlonega's plunger, fullback, Owens and Meaders, the fleetfooted halfbacks; Hollis, the quarter back who was given considerable praise by the Mercer sporting editors will be seen in action Saturday. Hollis is a man hard to stop and is an excellent side-stepper. Captain Brookshire is a hard-hitting line player with all the requirements of a fullback at tackling. Owens and Meaders are a pair of halfbacks to be proud of, they are light but fast as lightning. Owens is the best little tackler on the team. One would have been surprised to see how the fighting Blue Jackets held Mercer's beef to one lone touchdown in the first half. They were outweighted thirty pounds to the man, but still played a real game of football.

Blake and D. Williamson will probably start at ends. Skelton and R. Williamson at guards and Stephens at center. Swafford, Pharam, Jackson, Rhodes and McWilliams will compose the reserve line. Dorsey, Brown, Phillips, Wilson and Nesbit will serve as the extra backfield. Dahlonega has three stiff and hard-fighting teams to tackle following the game with Riverside—Presbyterian college, of South Carolina, Parris Island marines and Piedmont college. Dahlonega expects to put up a stiff and hard fight against these opponents.

Henry Ford Wins.
Gloucester, Mass., October 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Gloucester schooner Henry Ford today won the first of the elimination races to determine the challenger for the international fishing vessel trophy.

Players Recalled.
St. Louis, Mo., October 12.—The St. Louis Nationals have recalled five players, while the local Americans have recalled Dave Danforth, and listed recall notices on eleven others, according to announcements today.

Arrival of Alabama's Grid Team Finds Tech Worried Over Outlook

Yellow Jackets and Their Crimson Opponents Will Be Guests of the Lyric Tonight.

BY JOHN STATION.

The Crimson Tide, led by Coach Xen Stott, accompanied by some 18 or 20 sterling young college football players from the University of Alabama, arrived in Atlanta early this morning and immediately went to the Ansley hotel. The "Tide" looks every bit as husky and as eager to get into the fray against the Jackets Saturday afternoon as the reports that have been coming from the 'Bama city for the past week would indicate.

The 'Bama crew brings two ex-captains of the Crimson Tide along with the present captain, Shorty Cooper. The ex-captains on the team are Jack Hovater, star end and leader of the peppy 1917 eleven. Next in line of the captains comes Al Clements, who piloted the team from right end last season.

Other players among the arrivals are Bull Wesley and Ben Compton, guards; Shorty Prosser, center; Bartlett, center; Oliver, McClintock, Allen, McCarty, Bode, Montgomery, Ben Hunt, Bill Frost and Calhoun in the backfield; Fapa Huber for left tackle, and Hulet Whitaker at fullback.

Along with the team came many of the Crimson supporters, and practically the entire scrub squad. The supporters stepped from the train and in general made the Atlanta folks know that 'Bama's Crimson Tide is in Atlanta to do battle with the Yellow Jackets Saturday afternoon.

The Lyric theater manager, Monte Semon, has, through his generosity, reserved the box seats at the theater for the 'Bama players and their support. They will occupy the boxes at the 7:30 performance tonight.

Ticket Demand Grows.
And still the demand for tickets grows. All during the day telegrams were received at the Tech Athletic association offices begging for tickets. Old Tech alumni have waked up and watching one of the most colored and bitter fought contests of the season perhaps. The Alabama supporters made up their minds at the last fleeting moment to come over and watch Alabama fight at the Lyric.

This thing is a big event with the people of Alabama. Something like Christmas. There is still talk of getting the band over for the game. All during the week the propaganda has been going on that the Alabama band will be in the city to urge their cohorts to do their utmost.

The situation is something akin to this: A lad grows up with the feeling in him that his big neighbor can lick him. But this lad forgets that he is the son of a gun. Suddenly the neighbor comes down upon him and he is just as strong and capable as his big neighbor. At first it appears he is weak, then the reality of it strikes him, and he realizes that he is just as strong and capable as his big neighbor. He is just as strong and capable as his big neighbor. He is just as strong and capable as his big neighbor.

Coaches Worried.
Outside the Tech team itself, the coaches seem to be most perturbed over the game. The Navy comes in two weeks, and Notre Dame in three Saturdays, yet there has not been a word said about Alabama's win thus far. Usually for the big games the team gets at least two weeks of lecture on the preparation for Centre, and nearly that much for Penn State.

Yet, so far not one single diagram of either the Navy or Notre Dame has been put upon the blackboard. It simply means that the coaches are not affording to take the time for such work. Getting ready for Alabama is a job big enough to occupy every moment of time from now until the opening whistle.

Coach Alex in his own words said that he could tell us much about Notre Dame and the Navy. He admitted that he could show us the Captain's room. He said, "We haven't got time for that now. This Alabama game will be enough to keep us busy all this week. We have got to get ready for the Navy or Notre Dame."

When speech like that comes from Coach Alex, you may rest assured that he is considerably worried over the game.

Must Play Hard.
This is one time where the Tech reputation will stand the team in no good. If they beat Alabama it will be because, men to make the better football players and better thinkers. It is going to take hard charging and fighting all the way through. None of this walk out on the field and beat them stuff. If Alabama is to be beaten, they must first be whipped down. And that's a man's job for any one team to undertake.

Kid Clay had his men out yesterday afternoon running through the Alabama formations. The varsity lined up opposite Tech and ran a few times through his program. They have some neat plays, and two or three especially strong formations from which they can break or end the game.

It is probable that McWhorter, quarterback on the freshman team last year, will start the game at right half. Pup has a word of drive when he wants to have a punt and pass as well. He is a red triple threat man, combining the ability to run, buck, pass and punt. Jimmy Brewster, although he was out yesterday in uniform and ran signals a bit, will not be able to get into the game under any circumstances. His foot is completely benumbed, and he has recovered the full use of it yet. If Pup makes up his mind to put out Saturday, which he had better do, you are going to see some real drive out of that lad. He's got it in him, no doubt.

Baltimore Wins.
St. Paul, October 12.—Baltimore combined four hits and three errors, scoring five runs in their half of the third. McAtee tripled, O'Brien struck out, Boone booted Maise's grounder, McAvoy scoring Lawry singled Maise to second. Both scored on Jacobson's single which Morrison muffed up. Walsh was hit by a pitched ball and forced at second by Bentley, Jacobson going to third. Boley singled, scoring Jacobson. Sheehan replaced Martin. Bentley scored on a double steal. Boley went out stealing a moment later.

SERIES EVEN IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., October 12.—The Chicago White Sox evened the series with the National league rivals for the city championship by winning, 4 to 3. The series now stands two games each.

The game was a pitching duel between Alexander and Leverette. The Sox started an uphill fight in the sixth inning and at the end of the seventh had tied their rivals. Alexander then tightened and it looked like extra innings until Hooper uncocked a line drive to right which was good for two bases. Collins' out moved Hooper to third, and Sheely shot a hot grounder that sent Hooper home with the winning run.

COACHES' MOTHER WANTS TIE GAME

Middletown, Ohio, October 12.—Not since Tad and Howard Jones, who they are mere boys, captained rival "scrub" football teams on the commons at Exello, near here, 25 years ago, has the population of that village been so excited over a gridiron battle as it is today over the Yale-Yale clash scheduled at New Haven for Saturday.

The entire population of 100 has chosen sides and there is but one person who has not expressed a choice. That is Mrs. T. A. Jones, mother of the two mentors. She does not want either team to win.

"Let it be nothing to nothing," murmured the mother. "If either boy wins let it be Howard." "The fame will do him the most good."

The Red and Black team will go to Charlotte equally determined to wipe out the defeat which is the first that the Baptists have ever given to the Princeton. The game will be a hard-fought scrap and the annual battle in Charlotte will likely prove as hard-fought as heretofore.

Students Going.
One element that will favor the Wildcats will be the presence of Davidson student body who will be on hand to see the first big game in the trip of the Red and Black machine along the state road to the championship. Last year the Baptists were an obstacle in the path but this time the Wildcats' roar sounds like, "come and see."

Coach Grey is still unsatisfied with his lineup and it is probable that the Wake Forest game will see a different lineup from the one at Georgia Tech. The principle changes are that Clifton, the 185-pound tackle, will be given a chance in the backfield as an opponent to Heckman, who is the same build of the Princeton. The Alcoe has a bit of fever and will probably be saved for the V. P. I. game. With that exception the team will be intact.

The Wildcats and Baptists have been playing almost steadily since 1908, with the following results:
1908—Wake Forest, 4; Davidson, 31.
1910—Wake Forest, 0; Davidson, 32.
1911—Wake Forest, 0; Davidson, 9.
1912—Wake Forest, 7; Davidson, 13.
1913—Wake Forest, 0; Davidson, 6.
1914—Wake Forest, 6; Davidson, 7.
1917—Wake Forest, 7; Davidson, 72.
1919—Wake Forest, 0; Davidson, 21.
1920—Wake Forest, 7; Davidson, 27.
1921—Wake Forest, 10; Davidson, 7.

With the lineup with weights will probably be:
Faison, 155; C. Davis, 155, ends, MacMasters, 180; Clarke, 185, tackles.
Long, 160; S. Davis, 160, guards, Brice, 180, or Field, 172, centers, Shepherd, 165; Punt, 155, halves, Laird, 162, full.
Hendrix, 149, quarter.
Substitutes: Mallory, Regan, Sorrells, Cox, Summers, Hodgkin, Alexander, Covington, McLaurin and Sapperfield.

Boxing Killed.

Thomasville, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—The boxing ordinance which the American Legion wished to amend that boxing bouts might be held in the city limits was turned down by council at its meeting this week. The ordinance was "killed" by a unanimous vote of council after having passed two readings. Alderman Hopkins offered to withdraw it but council decided to take a vote on it and all members promptly voted nay.

Finish Trainings.

New York, October 12.—Billy Miske and Tom Gibbons, St. Paul pugilists, finished training today for their 15-round match tomorrow night at Madison Square garden.

Miske will be matched to meet Harry Wills, champion of the negro heavyweights according to promoters.

Iowa-Yale Game Carries Much Interest Saturday; Brother Meets Brother

Howard Jones, Bringing Iowa Eleven to Eli Bowl, Is Favored to Win Over His Famous Brother, Tad Jones.

Iowa City, Iowa, October 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Farmers of Iowa today have forgotten about the price of corn; the market value of choice hogs, and the usual talk about bumper bean crops—all because twenty-five of their sons, members of the University of Iowa football eleven, are 1921 champions of the western conference, are on their way to New Haven to play Yale in the Yale bowl Saturday in the biggest football game of Iowa's history.

Big, for a score of reasons, among which are: The rival teams are coached by brothers—Howard Jones, and brother Tad, famous mentor of the Yale eleven; that all of Iowa has a sneaking notion that the Black and Gold eleven may conquer Yale, and most important of all is the conviction that "Iowa fights" no matter how tough the opposition.

Iowa's championship eleven of a year ago made that slogan famous in the Midwest. With the same fighting spirit, Iowa promises to give Yale the fight of the year when the teams square off on the bottom of the Yale bowl Saturday.

Iowa's Open Style.
Coach Jones promises his famous brother everything in the way of the open game that the west has to offer. His attack probably will consist almost entirely of shifts and passes, although he will have Captain Gordon Locke, his great plugging fullback, at hand any time that he elects to try the mettle of the Bulldog line. Jones, himself a former Yale star end and later an assistant coach there, will be well equipped to counter the Yale offensive.

Iowa's offensive is a mixture of the old and new in football. Captain Locke is used as the pivot for Coach Jones' smashing tactics, while his ends and halfbacks co-operate with the quarter in the open passing and shifting game. The open style probably will be chiefly in evidence against Yale, as Coach Jones has developed a system of shifts that he thinks will be effective. Although he lost seven letter men last year, his team has shown offensive strength this season.

In place of Aubrey Devine, all-American quarterback, two men have been developed. Mink, a veteran guard, who assumed Devine's kicking role, and Perkins, who takes care of the generalship and the dispatching end of passes at quarterback.

Slater Missing.
"Duke" Slater, who last season was accustomed to take out one side of the opponents' line when gains were needed, has been replaced at tackle by Engleclinger. Engleclinger and his running mate, Thompson, one of last year's veterans, scale at 200 pounds. For years Iowa was one of the minor teams in the western conference, a second division team that was considered as no more than a good trial horse for the major western eleven. Then came Howard Jones. His advent marked a new period in Iowa's athletics.

But two years of bitter disappointment followed while Iowa watched two championships fade away by the barest of margins. One year an opponent's place kick drove away the championship just as it was settling at Iowa City; the second year a surprise on side kick ruined the Hawkeyes' dreams in the last moment of the deciding game.

Last year, from the beginning of the season, Iowa began preparing for the peak of her football glory, the game with Yale. This year the Hawkeyes, shorn of their four great stars, still have their slogan—"Iowa Fights."

Outlook at Yale.
New Haven, Conn., October 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The football question at Yale today is: "Can Howard Jones, the Iowa coach, beat his brother, T. A. D. Jones, head coach of the Yale eleven, in football strategy in the bowl on Saturday?" In beef and brawn the Hawkeyes seem to have the jump on the Bulldog, but huge brains and brains promises to hinge more or less on brains and generalship.

"Tad Jones was star quarterback at Yale in 1905, 1906 and 1907, while at the same time Howard was a substitute and competing for his place against Tom Shevlin, one of the great flank players of all time. The Jones brothers both graduated from the Sheffield scientific school of Yale in 1908.

Howard coached at Syracuse university in the fall of 1908 and turned out an eleven that defeated Michigan and held Princeton to a tie. He coached Yale coach in 1909 and with Ted Coy as captain, Harvard was beaten, 8 to 0, and Princeton went down, 17 to 0. Yale and Harvard played each other the next two years, and then began the era of Crimson supremacy in which Yale was beaten by Harvard in four successive seasons.

In 1916, with Tad Jones installed as Yale's head coach, and "Cupid" Black as captain, Yale once more turned on both Harvard and Princeton, defeating the former, 6 to 3, and the latter, 10 to 0. Since that year Yale has not scored a touchdown on Harvard.

Fight Draw.
New York, October 12.—(Irish Johnny) Curtin, of Jersey City, and Terry Martin, of Providence, R. I., fought a 10-round draw at the Polo grounds today. Both weighed 120 pounds.

The judges also declared a draw the 10-round semi-final between Lightweights Joe Tiplitz, of Philadelphia, and Andy Thomas, of Brooklyn.

MRS. LOWNDES IN ATLANTA WOMAN'S GOLF CROWN

Fine Second Side Rally Sends Dixie's Champion Safely Through by 2 Up

Four Down at Turn and Apparently Beaten By Miss Rosalie Mayer, Mrs. Lowndes Stages Brilliant Comeback.

Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, southern woman's golf champion, added the city championship of Atlanta to her achievements at East Lake yesterday, when she defeated Miss Rosalie Mayer 2 up in a grueling match.

Mrs. Lowndes won her victory by a magnificent rally on the last nine holes after she had turned four down. Miss Mayer went out in 44 and Mrs. Lowndes did not win a hole on the outward journey.

Mrs. Lowndes on the inward trip struck her real stride and played the last nine in 41, counting two putts of ten feet or more that were conceded by her opponent. This was the best golf of the tournament.

Miss Mayer's short game on the first nine was remarkable. Her chip shots were played boldly and right for the pin, with the result that was shown in her fine score for the first half of the journey. Only sensational golf would have withstood the assault launched on the back side by Mrs. Lowndes.

The cards: Mrs. Lowndes—Out 655 655 546—48 In 436 555 553—41—59 Miss Mayer—Out 545 564 546—44 In 558 768 464—49—93

After the completion of the play in the tournament the trophies were presented by Mrs. T. T. Williams, representing the Atlanta Woman's Golf association, to the winners in the various classes.

Play Was Splendid. The play of the finalists in the championship flight was excellent. Miss Mayer found her tee shots flying far and true in spite of the wind, while Mrs. Lowndes was afflicted with a pull on her tee shots that threatened destruction to her chances on more than one occasion.

Miss Mayer won the first hole, 5 to 6, and she took the second 4 to 5. Mrs. Lowndes halved the third when both took 56, but Miss Mayer's two long wood shots and a fine approach won the third 5 to 6. Miss Mayer was 3 up before the gallery realized that the match had started.

The fifth was halved in 66, but Miss Mayer won the sixth with a 4. Four down at this point, Mrs. Lowndes rallied and held her opponent even to the turn.

Mrs. Lowndes reached the edge of No. 10 green in 2 and won the hole with a 4.

Miss Mayer's drive was trapped on 11, while Mrs. Lowndes was on and down in 2 putts, cutting Miss Mayer's lead to two holes. Mrs. Lowndes pulled two wood shots into the rough on 12 while Miss Mayer's first two shots were in the fairway. This hole was halved after both players reached the green and putted.

Miss Mayer went into a bunker on her second on 14. Mrs. Lowndes was 4 feet from the cup on her third.

Squares Match. Mrs. Lowndes' rally reached its peak on 14. Her second shot, after a 225-yard drive, was right at the edge of the green. Mrs. Lowndes squared the match on 14, when she won the hole with a 5.

Number 15 was won by Mrs. Lowndes in par 5. Miss Mayer won the 16th 4 to 5. Mrs. Lowndes' 5 on the 17th was a win and on the 18th Mrs. Lowndes won with a par 3, and the match was over.

There was some very fine golf played in the lower flights. Mrs. Eleanor McCalliff, playing in her first big tournament, won the second flight from Mrs. H. C. Burr, 8 and 6. Mrs. D. M. Dickinson won the third, defeating Mrs. Charles Cornell, 5 and 4.

Atlanta Prepsters Start Season; B. H. S. Plays U. S. B. at Poncey

Marist College and Commercial High Meet in Annual Battle on the Former's Field.

By Roy E. White. Boys' High school and University School for Boys open up the city prep football league this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Ponce de Leon gridiron. A small admission price will be charged to defray the expense of the game.

The University team is one of the best prep eleven in the state. They have proved it by their work in the games already played. The Boys' High team is not up to its usual standard. Boys' High has tied one game and lost the other, but played a good game considering all the facts.

It has been established that the Boys' High line will hardly hit the 150-pound mark average, and the backfield will be only a trifle heavier. Then there is not a varsity man from last year back on the squad. The hopes of the Purple and White eleven will rest in their ability to fight against such heavy odds. Boys' High has been noted from years back for its fighting ability when the clouds are darkest.

The University eleven will probably be a special

VANDY STARS ARE INJURED

Nashville, Tenn., October 12.—(Special.)—So acute has become the congestion in the Commodore cripplery colony that the situation is downright uncomfortable. Doc Kuhn fell out yesterday, having arrived at a very feverish condition here in the midst of an Arctic flurry and was unable to even appear in his multi outfit on Curry field. The Vandy quarter and Tot McCullough moved in to swap yarns of scars and wounds with Lynn Bomar, Percy Conyers and Alf Sharpe.

Tot McCullough was the lone member of the cripplery colony to become encased in mole skin yesterday. His right fin is in an alarmingly swollen state, and he is forced to wear a tackle's gauntlet to protect the injured flipper. The giant wingman strained the digit while engaged in charging exercises, and his annexation to the wounded platoon swells the total to five regulars who are in wretched condition.

So great a flock of injured on the very threshold of the Wolverines creates even more dismal forebodings in the courageous bosoms of Commodore followers. Spurred along by sheer nerve, it is of course well nigh certain that the afflicted aggregation will hobble to their positions. Yet in their feeble state the opportunity for injuries is naturally accentuated.

Emergency Present. With any foe other than the Michigans, and with any fray save the gala ceremony of christening the stadium, it is practically certain that the Vandy coach would chain the sickly set to the sidelines. For rest is the most tonic to Lynn Bomar's pulled tendon, Percy Conyers' truant knee and Alf Sharpe's spurned shoulder.

Still the Johnny Rebs, shoeless as they were, left bloody footprints in the snow when limping into battle against the Yanks sixty years ago, and these same Johnny Rebs were forefathers of all the Commodores who nurse the marks of mole skin battles.

The spirit of '61 surges in their hearts. Even though they risk wreckage by defying injury, there is small chance to shackle the wounded Vandy warriors to the bench.

Yet the Commodores will face the Michigan foe in a highly damaged state. They can ill afford to draft any new recruits to the already congested cripplery clan.

FREE REIN WILL BE ACCORDED HUGGINS

New York, October 12.—Miller Huggins, whose re-engagement as manager of the New York Yankees for 1923 was announced yesterday, will have a free hand in organizing the team for next year, according to the owners of the baseball club.

The selection of Huggins for another year at the helm of the Yankees is a bold move, considering the fact that he was to be deposed because of the club's poor showing against the Giants in the world's series.

"Huggins will be in complete charge of the team," said Colonel Jacob Ruppert, part owner of the Yanks. "We are ready to make any trade that he thinks will strengthen the club."

Huggins has not been in the best of health and will undergo a minor operation at his home in Cincinnati, after a rest of a few days in Atlantic City before beginning to plan for next year.

Huggins succeeded "Wild Bill" Donovan as manager of the Yankees in 1918 after numerous pilots had tried unsuccessfully to win a championship. He moved the club up to fourth place in 1918, third in 1919 and 1920 and landed pennant winners last year and this year.

SCIENCE BLAMES RUTH FOR DEFEAT

New York, October 12.—Having no corner grocery stores where they could sit on cracker boxes, smoke stogies, and chew tobacco, the fans of Gotham have been forced to the subway and riding around town consulting bone specialists, muscle rubbers and psychoanalysts to find some one whom to chew the rag about the last year's series.

There's more truth than foolishness about the psychoanalytical idea. One Yankee fan, unable to find fault in the box scores, approached a psychoanalyst and found out that Babe Ruth is almost the sole cause for his team's debacle. Babe didn't hit, so no one else did. Not that the team blindly emulated Ruth but that it couldn't avoid it.

The mental suggestion was so strong that the whole team was the "Babe" simple, explained the psychoanalyst. "When the other members of the team saw that Ruth, the mighty bopper, ever developed, couldn't knock a ball out of the infield they subconsciously remarked to themselves, 'well, if Babe can't hit it I can't.'"

At any rate they didn't. Other fans are calling for the scalp of Miller Huggins, the pint bottle sized tutor of the Yankees.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, answered the criticism by re-engaging Huggins for next year.

GENERALS ARE ELATED; PLAY CARSON-NEWMAN

Lexington, Va., October 12.—(Special.)—Though elated by their 14-6 victory over North Carolina state here yesterday, the Fighting Generals are already looking to their next big game with the West Virginia mountaineers in Charleston on October 21. Carson-Newman, however, will be the next opponent, the game to be played here Saturday.

Washington and Lee came through the N. C. State game unscathed in the matter of injuries with the exception of the usual minor bruises and sprains.

Though the next opponent for W. and L. will be a small college the brand of football being displayed by that team this year is high in its class. The Tennessee team is being coached this year by the son of Charlie Moran, head coach of Centre college, himself a member of the playing Colonnade varsity last year. Carson-Newman succumbed to a rather overwhelming score at the hands of the wonder team in the first game of the year, they showed scoring ability of their own against Athens college Saturday when they rolled up a total of 66 points.

Joins Racers at Lakewood

"Wild Bill" Endicott was undecided whether to come into the races this week at Lakewood or not until yesterday, when he reported at the track and announced that he'd be ready for Friday's program. He is expected to star from this time on, as he is recognized as being one of the best in the business.

O'DOWD LEAVES ON JOURNEY TO TEXAS

Tim O'Dowd and his manager, James McQuinn, leave tonight for San Antonio where Timmie meets Johnny McCoy of Cleveland, Monday night over the twelve round route.

McCoy is one of the toughest bantamweights that has ever invaded the southwest and holds decisions over Eddie O'Dowd, Kid Williams, Pat Moore, and has fought Eddie Antler, a Jack Wolfe and Carl Tremaine in a draw. O'Dowd and McCoy met in San Antonio last June, and after twelve rounds of hard milling the referee called it a draw, but the next day all three of the San Antonio papers gave Tim the decision.

After the fight there Tim and his pilot will return to Atlanta to prepare for his meeting with Ashton Donnan in New Orleans the latter part of this month.

COLONELS ON LONG JAUNT

Danville, Ky., October 12.—The Praying Colonels, gridiron warriors of Centre college, today turned their faces to the east, beginning an invasion scheduled to end with the clash with the Harvard eleven, October 21.

Twenty-six players entrained for the trip. The Colonels carried their textbooks with them and Dr. C. E. Allen, faculty athletic representative, went along armed with test questions prepared by a Centre instructor. Two hour study periods were scheduled for each day and it was intimated that written tests might be held before the end of the trip.

The invaders were booked to arrive at Richmond, Va., the first stop, Friday morning. After the clash there with the V. P. L. eleven, they were to move on to Mansfield, Mass., arriving Monday.

It was planned to establish field headquarters for training purposes at Mansfield until Friday, when the invaders were to move on to Boston.

FRANK MORAN KNOCKED OUT

London, October 12.—(By The Associated Press.)—Joe Beckett, British heavyweight pugilist, scored a technical knockout over Frank Moran, American heavyweight, when the referee stopped their bout in the seventh round tonight.

In another contest, Jack Bloomfield, British light heavyweight champion, stopped Bombardier Wells, also of England, in the sixth round.

Soldier Jones, heavyweight of Canada, won from the Englishman, Arthur Bowler, when the referee intervened and stopped the bout in the third round owing to an injury to one of Townley's legs.

BUDD FIGHTS IN NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., October 12.—(Special.)—Nashville's biggest fight in years will be staged Friday night when Budd and Atlanta's light star, Freidman, of Chicago, both lightweights, meet.

Freidman is expected to arrive here early tomorrow. It is probable that Walk Miller and Budd will get in town tonight.

The Freidman-Budd fight will mark the opening of the fall season of the Nashville Athletic club. This is only one of the many good matches promised for the coming season by the local matchmakers.

Budd began his climb with a decision over Young Stripling, who was the sensation of the south at the time. He then defeated "Red" McLachlin. The hard-hitting Red Herring was then brought to Atlanta for Budd and a draw resulted.

The semi-windup will be an eight-round bout between Maxey Bernard and Gibby Gibson, local lightweights. They rank among the best fighters in this vicinity and are expected to have a big following.

Cotton Nelson will meet a worthy opponent in a four round preliminary. A battle royal will open the card.

PUNTS WORRY VIRGINIANS

Charlottesville, Va., October 12.—(Special.)—In the heavy scrimmages of Wednesday and Thursday afternoons Virginia's gridirers have been made to sweat even though a stiff wind has been sweeping over Lambeth field. The coaches have detected several faults, both in offense and defense, which they are trying to remedy before the Richmond university game Saturday.

Good punting has not been possible during the high wind but time has been spent in the footwork of several booters. Virginia's weakness in kickers was clearly shown in the Princeton game and the coaches are trying to develop this feature of the play. Not since the team of '15 and '16 has Virginia boasted of a punter of first rank.

Reports come from Richmond that in the fullback, Speed, the Spiders have a man who can be counted on to punt the ball out of danger whenever called upon. Since John Clark, the big tackle who failed to return to college, did most of Virginia's footwork last year, much time has had to be devoted this fall to training a man to fill his place.

On Lefevre field the first-year squad has been working all week to open their season by playing Fork Union Military academy at Fork Union on Saturday. The coaches have built up a line that has almost as much weight as the front men on the first varsity eleven and while the backfield is light it makes up in speed for what is lacking in beef.

Fresh winds have dried off Lambeth field and unless the weather takes a sudden change the afternoon game is expected to be ideal for football. Through the early weeks of practice the afternoon have been rather warm for hard work but cool weather has arrived with the time for intensive training in details and for perfection of plays.

Harte Named Captain.

Savannah, Ga., October 12.—Jack Harte was yesterday elected captain of the Benedictine college football team. Pat Kratins was chosen as alternate captain. The team goes to Charleston Saturday to play Porter. The Benedictine school will play at Charleston tomorrow to play the Charleston High school.

Tigers See Harding.

Washington, October 12.—Members of the Alabama Polytechnic institute (Auburn) football team, headed by Coach "Mike" Donohue, were received today by President Harding at the white house. The team is en route to West Point where on Saturday it will meet the Military academy eleven.

Fails by 3-5 of Second In Attempt to Shatter Sig Haugdahl's Record

Walgreen, Robinson, Koetzla Are Among the Winners—Southeastern Sweepstakes Won By Malley After Duel With Meyers.

Many attempts have been made at lowering the record of 47.28 seconds for the mile track at Lakewood, set by Sig Haugdahl, but none have come so close as did Streigle piloting his Simplex speedster yesterday afternoon, who attained a mark of 48 flat in the opening races of the Southeastern Fair association.

Streigle exhibited some wonderful driving, taking the curves wide open and holding it right on down the straightaway. Three attempts were made by three different drivers. Allen ran second in the attempt to shatter Sig's record, making the mile in 51 flat, and Dave Koetzla, who is some little pilot himself, did it in 52.1-5 seconds. To all appearances Dave made better time in his Apperson than did Allen on the straightaway, but lost out on the curves.

In spite of the fact that outside of Streigle's record no great speeds were attained, a very thrilling and interesting racing card was offered the crowd.

In the first event, which was a light car race, distance of five miles, No. 6 an Essex car, driven by Walgreen, zipped by the checkered flag for first place. His time was 5 minutes and 1-5 seconds. No. 2, a car under the name of "Bug," piloted by Bullock, took second place, and No. 21, a Deussenberg, driven by Malley, ran third. The winner received a purse of $150 and the driver taking second place was the recipient of $100.

The Sweepstakes. The second event was the Southeastern Sweepstakes, which was run in two preliminary heats of four miles each and a final. The cars finishing first, second and third in each heat were declared eligible for the final. In the first heat of four miles, Rob inson, skipping a fast little Maxwell, carried off first place. His time was 4:10. Second place was taken by Streigle in his Simplex and third by Bullock in the "Bug."

In the second heat of the Southeastern Sweepstakes, the first car to cross the line was an Apperson driven by Dave Koetzla. His time was 4:10 2-5. Second place was taken by a Deussenberg, piloted by Robinson, and third went to Meyer, the wheel of an Auburn.

In the finals the cars qualifying first, second and third in the heats competed. The distance run was ten miles. Malley drove his Deussenberg to victory, holding the lead from the first. Meyer, in his Auburn special, kept right at his gas tank throughout the race and at times it seemed that he would pass him, but Malley succeeded in keeping his car about a length ahead.

These two were right together at every curve and a smash seemed inevitable, but when the dust cleared away they were still in the same positions with the Deussenberg just a little bit in advance. Malley's time was 9 minutes 55.1-5 seconds and Meyer's time varied from this not more than 1-20 of a second, for they were practically neck and neck when they thundered past the checkered flag. A purse of $1,000 was split among the three winners. 50 per cent going to the winner, 30 per cent to second, 20 per cent to third.

Two events were run in between the heats and final of the Southeastern Sweepstakes, the first being a three-cornered match race, a distance of 150 was offered and a driver's side bet of $150. The Golden Submarine won this event with a time of 3 minutes and 1-5 seconds.

Clubwomen Give Heartily To Greater Tallulah Plan

BY LOUISE DOOLY,
Editor Women's Department Constitution.

Athens, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) More than $50,000 in money and innumerable "work days" were pledged Thursday for the greater Tallulah program launched at the Athens convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, these pledges to be applied to a $50,000 fund which the trustees of the school propose to raise for the enlargement and better equipment of the school. This $50,000 is in addition to the maintenance fund raised annually by apportionment among the twelve districts, the endowment fund and scholarships.

Mrs. Otley Presides.
Mrs. John K. Otley, acting director during the illness of Mrs. Hugh Willett, presided when the Tallulah project was put forward, and "Give and Get for a Greater Tallulah" was announced as the slogan for the raising of the money.

"Give yourselves," said Mrs. Otley, "but give others, too, an opportunity to give."

Seven thousand one hundred dollars in pledges before the formal opening of the campaign was announced by Mrs. Price Gilbert, a trustee.

Of this, the first $500 was given by Miss Nannie C. Davis, principal of the schools, and the second $1,000 was pledged by Mrs. Hugh Willett, director, who agreed to give $500 and get the same amount.

"The Georgia Railway and Power company gives $1,000," the message conveying the gift came in a letter from the president of the company, Preston Arkwright, collaborating with the chairman of the board, H. M. Atkinson. Other noteworthy gifts were two scholarships given by Mr. and Mrs. John Lester in the name of their sister, Mrs. Hugh Willett; a $2,000 life scholarship in memory of Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, by her daughters, Mrs. Lamar Rucker, of Athens, and Mrs. J. P. McDougall, of Atlanta; $500 in honor of Mrs. Guggenheim, of New York, by her son; $100 from Eugene Callaway of Atlanta; $500 from Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan; $500 from Mrs. John K. Otley; $100 from Miss Rosa Woodbury individually, and $100 for her school; $500 pledged by Mrs. B. M. Boykin for the Atlanta Woman's club to go to the Ellen McCabe library; $100 each from Mrs. Albert Akers, Mrs. C. K. Ayers, Mrs. Price Gilbert, Mrs. H. H. McCall, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. Spole Lyon, of Atlanta; Mrs. Hubert Yow, of Martin; Mrs. Martin Dalney $500. Mrs. Price Smith has already raised $300.

Drama League Elects Officers At Meeting

The Atlanta center, Drama League of America, announces the following officers elected at the meeting held Thursday: Mrs. Emma Garrett Boyd, president; Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, second vice president; Mrs. John Morris, third vice president; Mrs. Dudley Cowles, secretary; Mrs. Marvin Perry, assistant secretary; Robert S. Moore, treasurer. The office of the first vice president will be filled at an early date.

Board of Directors.
Miss Annabel Horne, Mrs. John T. North, Mrs. H. B. Scott, Mrs. J. E. Sommerfield, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., Mrs. Edward Barnes, Mrs. Frank Inman, Miss Gooche, Mrs. Robert Cotton Alay, Mrs. Bolling Jones, and Cyril Smith are named on the board of directors, which also includes the officers.

Ex-Officio Members.
The ex-officio members of the board are Mrs. W. C. Spiker, Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, Dr. W. W. McLaughlin, Dr. C. K. Ayers, Mrs. Price Gilbert, Mrs. H. H. McCall, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. Spole Lyon, of Atlanta; Mrs. Hubert Yow, of Martin; Mrs. Martin Dalney $500. Mrs. Price Smith has already raised $300.

The office of first vice president will be filled in the near future.

Study Class.
The meetings of the study class will be resumed this fall, the first to be held under the leadership of Mrs. Boyd at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at Edison hall.

Mrs. Boyd will read "Sakuntala," a Sanskrit play, a masterpiece of ancient Indian drama. Mrs. Boyd recently enjoyed the presentation of this play at the Greenwich Village theater. Mr. Mukerji advised and aided the producers of the play there. Later on other East Indian dramas and Greek dramas will be the subjects studied by this class.

Miss Bell Honored At Bridge-Tea.
Mrs. Van Wilkison entertained very delightfully Thursday afternoon at a bridge-tea given at her home on Juniper street in honor of Mrs. J. B. Bell, whose marriage to William Brown Reeves will be solemnized Saturday, October 14.

The rooms where the guests were received were effectively decorated with roses in silver vases and baskets.

The guest prize, given to Miss Bell, was an exquisite piece of lingerie. The top score bridge prize and the consolation prize were prize novelties.

Mrs. Wilkison was beautifully gowned in robin's egg blue georgette crepe, handsomely embroidered.

Miss Bell wore a modish afternoon frock of black kitten's ear crepe with a large black hat.

Mrs. Wilkison was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Frank Wincoff.

The guests included the following: Misses Marie Porter, Adelle Popham, Louise De Lering, Louise McKemie, Mesdames Berry H. Collins, E. V. Boyart, G. W. Martz, Clyde Asbury, George Hope, Jr., Frank Wincoff, K. E. Williams, J. H. Whitten, J. C. Harris III, U. T. Coch and Aubrey Milam.

Executive Board of Tech High P-T. A. to Meet
A meeting of the executive board of the Tech High Parent-Teacher association will be held in the pastor's study of the Central Congregational church, 9 West Ellis street tonight at 8 o'clock.

The executive board consists of the presiding officers and the chairman of each committee. The personnel of this board is the president, Dr. William Lawrence Stuchell; vice president, Mrs. H. C. McCutcheon; secretary, Mrs. J. Kell Martin; treasurer, Mr. S. W. Hastings; chairman of committees, legislative, Mr. John M. Cooper; membership, Mr. Adam Jones; attendance, Mrs. Elijah Brown; ways and means, Mr. J. E. Branch; entertainment, Mrs. J. Kell Martin; better films, Mrs. George S. Ober, Jr.; publicity, Mr. E. C. Laird; lunch room, Mrs. D. M. Therrell; athletics, Mr. A. L. Myers; scholarship, Dr. A. B. Snellie; Americanization, Mrs. J. E. Andrews; home and equipment, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson; hospitality, Miss John Bowie.

It is desired that every member of this board make a special effort to attend this meeting.

Miss Wood Leaves For New York.
Miss Anna Belle Wood, the talented pianist, who was heard in concert last week with Mrs. Kelly Eakin has left for New, where she will teach this winter in the Kate Chittendon school of applied music.

Great interest centered in the artistic program of Miss Wood and Mrs. Eakin last week at Habersham hall, where both musicians were enthusiastically received.

Mrs. Eakin, whose lovely voice has been heard several times recently, was accompanied by Miss Wood in several numbers. She has never been heard to better advantage than in her intelligent interpretation of Debussy and Brahms' numbers. Her depth of tone and feeling, and her brilliant technique prove her to be master of her instrument.

Her absence from Atlanta will be a decided loss in music circles.

Miss Burr Weds Mr. Miller At Lovely Church Ceremony

Miss Ouida Kimbrough Burr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Burr, and Laurence Spurlock Miller were married Thursday at a beautiful church ceremony which took place at 8 o'clock at the Kirkwood Presbyterian church, the Rev. Carl Barth, of Macon, officiating.

The church was very lovely with pink and white flowers and palms banked as a background. The bride procession entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played on the organ by Mrs. Norwood Robson, of Macon, Ga.

Miss Anna Brown Small, of Macon, Ga., a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of green crepe de chine and carried an arm bouquet of pink dahlias.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Miller, of Brunswick, Ga., sister of the groom, wore pale yellow crepe de chine and carried white dahlias in a cascade bouquet.

The two matrons of honor, sisters of the bride, were Mrs. Alfred Green and Mrs. Tom Ripley. Mrs. Green wore orchid crepe de chine and carried a cascade bouquet of pink dahlias.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for an extended trip to points of interest in the east. They will make their home in Atlanta on their return.

Mrs. Ripley was gowned in pink crepe de chine, and her flowers were lavender dahlias.

Claud Gaymon, of Jacksonville, Fla., acted as best man, and the ushers were Carter Peyton, John Kruse and Haley Martin.

The little flower girl, Miss Emma Lake, wore a dainty frock of peach-colored crepe de chine, and carried a basket of pink rose buds.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, was lovely in her velvet dress of king's blue, trimmed with silver and having a girdle of cut steel. Her hat was of velvet, the same shade as her dress, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and swags.

Mrs. Burr, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in dark blue crepe de chine, with a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Miller, mother of the groom, wore lavender crepe de chine. Her corsage was also of pink roses.

National Overseas President Will Visit Mrs. Toler

Miss Louise Wells, of Chicago, national president of the Overseas club, will arrive in Atlanta Sunday, October 22, to visit Mrs. John T. Toler, president of the Atlanta Overseas club, at her home on Piedmont avenue.

Miss Wells is unusually pretty and attractive, and is a representative of a prominent and wealthy family of Chicago. She will be entertained at a series of informal parties during her visit, the first to be a luncheon at the Capital City club on Monday, October 22, at which Mrs. Toler will be hostess.

Miss Wells will speak at the Atlanta Woman's club Monday afternoon, October 22, and will present the purposes and ideals of the national club before that organization.

Commander MacNider, of the American Legion, has invited Miss Wells to speak next week at the convention in New Orleans, which begins on October 16. She will go as the representative of the overseas women. She rendered valuable service in the central division of the Y. M. C. A., having spent two years in active work in France during the world war.

Miss Wells will also address the Atlanta Overseas club, which has a membership of 35, and will inspire them to work toward the building of an organization which will work for some very important civic interest and have a definite purpose in view.

Mrs. Toler, the Atlanta president, volunteered for service with the Y. M. C. A., and was overseas for fifteen months. She served with the 115th infantry of the 29th division, which was formerly the Maryland National Guard, and was stationed in the Chantilly area. Mrs. Toler was also an active centen duty in Paris for three months.

Mrs. H. C. Shover and Mrs. K. T. Tomlinson will assist Mrs. Hope in entertaining.

A program will be presented during the afternoon. Mrs. James Whitten, accompanied by Mrs. Rucker McCarty, will sing. Miss Martha Shover will read a paper on the subject of "The Founders of America," and Miss Kate Hope Irbly will render several selections on the piano.

Mrs. Blackburn And Mrs. Hines Win Contests

BY LOUISE DOOLY, Editor Woman's Department, Constitution.

Mrs. E. R. Hines, of Milledgeville, president of the tenth district, for the third time won the gavel awarded to the district president organizing the largest number of new clubs within the year.

Mrs. Robert Blackburn, of Atlanta, was adjudged the winner in the state poem contest.

In the contest conducted by the chairman of fine arts, Mrs. T. C. Geiss, of Dawson, three poems were voted by the judges so nearly equal in value that the decision was left to the vote of the convention. A poem entitled "Desire" was the winner. It was written by Mrs. Robert Blackburn, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Couch Hostess For Miss Harper

Miss Addie Harper, bride-elect, was complimented by Mrs. Fred Couch, of East Point, at a pretty bridge-ette Thursday.

Fall flowers, carrying out the color scheme of pink and lavender, were the attractive house decorations.

The guests included Miss Addie Harper, Mrs. George Christian, Mrs. P. H. Orr, Mrs. A. G. Couch, Mrs. T. M. Harper, Mrs. J. Sargent, Mrs. Homer Ashford, Mrs. Edwin Harper Green, Mrs. T. W. Five lovely debutantes, Misses Sarah Orme, Martha Boynton, Emily Davis, Mary Shelden and Emmie Nixon, will be honor guests at a party given at the Piedmont Driving club Saturday evening, October 21, by their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith.

These attractive young girls are all cousins and will be central figures at a series of social affairs throughout the season. Invited to meet them will be a group of young men.

Miss Buchanan Honor Guest At Luncheon

One of the most charming affairs which have been given to Miss Lola Buchanan, a bride-elect of November 1, was the luncheon given Thursday by Mrs. Lois Verner, at Verner's lodge in Peachtree Road. Before luncheon was served a unique troupe of hand painted table numbers. The honor guest was presented a pair of Madeira pair cases.

The picturesque lodge dining room was beautifully decorated in autumn leaves and fall flowers. The brightly blazing logs in the old fashioned fireplace lent an unusual atmosphere of cheer.

The table held a low bowl center piece of lavender cosmos. The place cards were miniature brides.

Miss Buchanan wore a Parisian model of rust colored wool lace. Her hat matched and was trimmed in burnt peacock.

Miss Verner was beautifully gowned in brown Canton crepe heavily embroidered with gold metal thread in a Chinese design.

The guests included Miss Buchanan, Mrs. Herbert Kennon, Mrs. Carlos Mason, Mrs. Norwood Griffin, Mrs. A. Tates, Mrs. Jos. E. HEALTHY TEETH

It has been a long time since we have talked about teeth in this space. They are perhaps not a pleasant subject of conversation, yet it is important to know something about them and it is most important to be convinced of the necessity of scrupulous care.

If, from early childhood, the teeth and improving the health of ailing ones. If you follow my suggestion you may not feel the benefit for a year, but after that you will feel it all your life. It is simply this: include a certain per cent of coarse-grained food in your daily diet, things that are difficult to chew. This exercises and strengthens the teeth. And, like any other part of the body, they respond to exercise.

For instance, discard white bread entirely and eat whole wheat. Fine white bread is responsible for a depressing amount of tooth decay because it forms gas in the stomach and increases the amount of fermentation in the mouth. The coarse particles of the whole wheat bread tend to scrape and clean the teeth and to stimulate the gums by friction against them. Coarse grained cereals, bran and cornmeal, for instance, are also good, also raw fruit.

E. B. G.—When the lashes and brows are straw color as yours are, they should be darkened with some harmless stain, such as a decoction from walnut shells; but I should never risk a chemical dye on the eyelids. The only convenience of using this stain is the fact that it must be applied frequently as it will wear off much faster than a dye. Use a fine sable brush so only the hairs will be stained.

Worried One—I agree with you that "many young women have lines around their mouths," but they need not have them. If you are one of

Twentieth Century Coterie Meets With Mrs. McIntyre

A meeting of the Twentieth Century Coterie was held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. D. I. McIntyre, on East Fourth street.

Mrs. S. W. McCallie contributed a paper on "William Bartram's Trip Through Georgia in 1773," and Mrs. Theodore Jack read a paper on "Stage Coaches and Taverns in the Early Colonial Days."

The club is making a study of American literature through studying American literature.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The tea table was lovely with var-colored autumn flowers.

Assisting Mrs. McIntyre in the entertainment of the members of the Coterie were Mrs. John Scott, of Decatur, and Mrs. Homer McAfee.

Officers and Members.

The officers of the Coterie are Mrs. William Cole Jones, president; Mrs. Henrietta Riehon Berry, vice president; Mrs. E. M. Willingham, recording secretary; Mrs. W. H. Emerson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. L. Russell, treasurer, and Mrs. Homer Dawson, custodian.

The membership is limited to twenty-five members as follows: Mrs. B. R. Berry, Mrs. James A. Campbell, Mrs. J. H. Christian, Mrs. Walter G. Cooper, Mrs. W. W. Crocker, Mrs. W. A. Crane, Mrs. Homer Dawson, Mrs. W. H. Everett, Mrs. Murray Howard, Mrs. T. H. Jack, Mrs. William Cole Jones, Mrs. T. L. Lewis, Mrs. S. W. McCallie, Mrs. D. I. McIntyre, Mrs. W. S. Nelson, Mrs. C. P. The four honorary members are Mrs. J. H. Gandy, Mrs. A. H. Merrill, Mrs. George Sale and Miss Clara McCallie.

Dr. W. F. Melton Addresses Atlanta Chapter, U. D. C.

At the regular meeting of the Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy yesterday afternoon at the chapter house, Dr. W. F. Melton, of the chair of English at Emory university, spoke interestingly on the subject of war poetry of the south, especially produced during the war between the States, the poetic theme growing out of the heroism of its men at the front, and the heroism of its women at home.

Dr. Melton spoke also of the direct poetry growing out of the love of the slave for his master—this direct poetry to a certain extent having been stopped by the freedom of the slaves.

Dr. Melton interspersed his address by reading some original poems in English of 1853, and introduced Mrs. McCallie who read some original stories.

At the conclusion of Dr. Melton's address a rising vote of appreciation was given him.

Business Session.

Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, president, presided over the meeting, which was opened by the singing of "America."

Reports were made by Mrs. Forrest Kiddell, Mrs. James James and Mrs. Seidell. Mrs. Seidell spoke of the young dental student who is being aided by the chapter to finish his studies. Mrs. Seidell also spoke of the chapter's contribution to the war fund. Mrs. Seidell spoke in praise of Miss Rosa Moran's work as chairman of scholarships and announced that the committee would have a rummage sale on Monday, October 16, at 218 Auburn avenue, and that anyone desiring to contribute could send rummage to Miss Rosa Moran, West Tenth street, Mrs. Stratford Seidell, or to the chapter house if more convenient.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson was given an ovation after a prolonged absence from the chapter on account of illness. Mrs. John H. Dobbs announced that them stop doing the things that cause these lines. Take care of the teeth. Keep the mouth mobile through exercise and do not bite the lips or form any other bad habits that make the mouth appear prematurely aged.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Housewife's Guide to Saving," "The A B C of Saving," etc.

As fish deteriorates and becomes injurious sooner than any other animal food, it is essential that a housewife take great care to select only strictly fresh fish. It is impossible to ship it a great distance and keep it as fresh as is essential for health. Therefore, if you live inland, you have probably learned not to depend on fish, except what may be secured from the bodies of water near your home.

You recognize fresh fish by its firmness; it has no evidence of discoloration. Scales and eyes of fresh fish are bright, gills red and fins firm.

A housekeeper planning meals should certainly know something about the comparative value of different kinds of fish, as there is a considerable difference in nutritive worth, due chiefly to the larger amount of fat in some, such as salmon. As a rule, white-fleshed fish has the oil confined to the liver and therefore little more digestible than dark-fleshed fish, where the oil is distributed throughout the body. Examples of white-fleshed fish are white fish, halibut, etc., of dark-fleshed fish, salmon, mackerel and bluefish. There is a great difference in texture, firmness and price of the different classes.

Good Sense.

Lay newspapers over the freshly scrubbed kitchen floor, to prevent the tracking in of dirt while the floor is still damp.

Prevent Cracked Icing.

If the icing on your cake has become too hard and you are afraid it will break when cut, dip the cake knife into boiling water for a minute before cutting the cake.

Humpty Centerpieces.

If the linen centerpiece or doilie is inclined to pucker in the center and the lace seems too tight, stretch and pin it on a towel on the floor while you wait. It will dry and absolutely smooth if stretched tightly and pinned securely.

WOMEN AND MEDICINE

In Europe, years ago, a woman named Hildegarde wrote a notable book on medical subjects. In those days the men were too busy bothering about dogmas of religion and medicine, and the study of herbs was thought beneath their notice.

It was the women, however, who mostly conducted the hospitals and cared for the sick, and thus they learned a great deal about the value of the various herbs. They let the men fight out the questions of theories.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared almost fifty years ago by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, did then, and does now, relieve the ailments peculiar to women. It is a vegetable compound and contains no harmful drugs. This is proven day after day, and in your own neighborhood, by grateful women who have used it.—(adv.)

The Invisible Husband

By Margaret Murray

INSTALLMENT NO. 17.

"Eating With a Golden Spoon." Deborah was quite overcome by the elegance of the salon into which she was led. Glimpses of women in gleaming décolleté, and men in smart dinner dress, brightened the dining room. Waiters of obsequious mien hovered in attendance. Deborah realized, from the deferential bows in the direction of Demarest that the famous film idol was not unrecognized. Women not only smiled, but fawned upon him. One young flapper, attired in red, whispered in an audible tone—

"There's Larry Demarest. Isn't he good?" Her escort was indifferently answered. "Why do all the girls rave about him? I think he looks bourgeois—and as for the girl he's with, she must be a shop girl."

Deborah was quick enough to catch the last phrase—her cheeks drew instantly with hot mortification. Demarest, however, long accustomed to public attention, was nowise affected by the gossip or commotion which entrance into the cafe occasioned. "Give us a cozy table near the window," he requested, with a neat tender of a ten-dollar bill to the head waiter. "Over there in the corner, ne'est-ce pas?"

"Out, whichever table monsieur desires!" Across the marble floor, Deborah trailed. The stiff gait in her flat-heeled, little shoes afforded no dignity to match the elegance of the surroundings. Deborah felt clumsy and awkward. Her dress—thanks to Madame Marie—was not unfashionable, but of the cheapest material. Compared to the society women dining in a riot of furs and jewels and bare shoulders, Deborah seemed drab and different. She wondered and regretted that Demarest had dared to take her into such a formal place.

"Perhaps we should have gone to Gretna Village, or somewhere," she murmured, after the waiter had placed them comfortably in gold-brocaded chairs, and the bus boy was dispatched to fill the shining crystal glasses with ice and water.

Demarest smiled sociably. "This is reserved and restful—don't you like it?"

"Yes, but—" Deb blushed in a manner that made her more beautiful than she would have believed. Her very simplicity and quaintness, the severity of her plain black gown emphasized the delicacy of her skin, the youthful glow in her deep, brown eyes, and the freshness, generally, that the effete women of society lacked in sorrowful evidence.

At the very next table a young debutante whose photograph decorated the leading society columns, was smoking cigarettes in a jeweled holder, and complaining, "I can't eat a thing. Reginald, old dear! Another terrible tea this afternoon—(woman at the Lorraine, with Freddie and his flunk! Too irritable, the way Freddie dances and drinks, and I don't mind telling you I'm a bit squiffy)." Deborah echoed unconsciously, the wonderment in her eyes.

"Don't pay any attention to her. She's probably as sober as you are. She's nowadays think it's smart to be fast. I hope you won't get like that."

"I never shall," Deborah promised solemnly.

"That's fine! You know, at first, I was a bit worried about your venturing into the movies—but you can see yourself that girls in society are no more decorous in their behavior than half the chorus girls who are daily denounced."

The girl across the way was whining now in a louder voice—"Oh, Reggie, can't you possibly get some champagne? . . . Oh, you know you could if you knew the world."

"Not in hotels," Reggie replied positively. "Won't even let you drink your own?"

"Stupid! I call it! But we might sneak over to the Club De Vere, of the Tent, after the show—we're sure to run into somebody we know with something hot or cold under the table. How about the hotel?"

Demarest deplored cynically, "That's the way it goes! That's society! All dressed up and too many places to go—always hurrying off from where they are, and always wishing to be somewhere else. About daybreak, when those two aristocratic vagabonds have danced and drunk themselves to depletion, they're up at Child's, eat bacon and eggs, and say that the common people have nothing to kick about."

"You think she's going to Child's, dressed up that way?" Deborah's naive impression of society adjusting itself continued to dictate. "Sure they'll turn in at Child's—possibly Reubens."

"Reubens? What's that?" "A deliciousness with cabaret prices. It's Child's for ham and eggs, and Reubens for a ham sandwich or a cold chicken leg! Of course, no self-respecting junior league would venture into either place before 2 a. m. That wouldn't be decent—but about the time the milkman has the traffic both ways, the jazz colony and the theatrical tramps are calling for black coffee in all these places. Ever seen 'em?"

"I've never been up that late in my life," Deb sighed almost regretfully. Larry helped her to a delicious share of chicken à la Maryland, as he asked casually. "Like to try?" Deborah's head nodded vigorously. "What should she answer? To be up until 2 o'clock in the morning would be a misdemeanor for any little girl working in a Fifth avenue shop—especially one who had to report at 8 a. m. But for a girl who had just made her debut in the movies—a girl who had had hopes of becoming a star, and who realized that she had to be sensible enough to adapt herself to the life—what ought she to say?"

"You seem to be doubtful. You disappoint me, little mother! There's no resistance without determination, you know! Are you a little more that wants to get its wings spread? Are you good only because you've never been tempted?"

Deborah drew in her breath quickly. She could not answer even his glance! Mutely, she sat digging her fork into the linen tablecloth, until Larry concluded.

"You've picked you out for a plucky little kid, but unless you're sure of it yourself, you had better keep out of the movies." (Copyrighted, 1922, for The Constitution.)

"Destiny—or Desire?" is the title of tomorrow's interesting installment.

Miss Keith Is Honored.

Miss Mary Keith, a bride-elect of this month, was delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon at the Duffell tea room with a miscellaneous shower.

A delicious salad course was served from a beautifully decorated table, the color scheme being carried out in yellow and white. A huge basket tied with yellow tulle, holding the gifts, graced the center of the table. The guests' places were marked by dainty miniature bride place cards.

Miss Keith was gown in brown moleskin crepe and her hat was a model in brown velvet.

Covers were laid for Miss Keith, Miss Kathryn Littlejohn, Miss Etta V. Hudson, Miss Pearl Gardner, Miss Ida Goldstein, Miss Mary Mann, Miss Gertrude McGlone, Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Alva Thomas, Miss Elizabeth Jarrard, Mrs. John Newton and Mrs. C. D. Oslin.

Miss Keith was delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Miss Katherine Littlejohn with a matinee party at the Lyric, followed by a tea. Those invited to meet Miss Keith were Miss Pearl Gardner, Miss Etta V. Hudson, Miss Mary Alva Thomas, Miss Goldie Hardy, Miss Erma Fischel, Miss Helen Fulton, Mrs. L. C. Collier.

Mrs. Robison Is Hostess Thursday.

Mrs. Stillwell Robison was hostess Thursday at a bridge-ten for Mrs. John Hill Gentry, of Cincinnati, Miss Mary Newton, of Jackson, and Miss Elizabeth McMillan, of Acworth, a bride-elect of November.

The honor guests were presented with French novelties and the winner of the top score was awarded a deck of cards and the consolation was a handkerchief.

Three hundred and fifteen delegates were reported registered Thursday morning with others to arrive for the final sessions Friday.

Mrs. W. W. Battle, of Augusta, chairman of the committee on friendly relations with ex-service men, will present today practical plans for co-operation. One of the most impressive features of the convention was her presentation of the national habit of General Paul Malone, U. S. army, noted orator, who, when he was asked how the women could be of greatest service to the ex-service men, proposed that they should follow the lead of the American Legion.

The American Legion, he said, is the most important organization of men in the country, and when they decide to do a thing it is likely to be done. If the federation, in its efforts for the ex-service men, will join with the legion, the federation will quadruple its results.

Citizenship Conference. A rousing conference on citizenship was conducted for the whole convention Thursday by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, state chairman and also chairman for the national body, on citizenship training. Her report showed that Georgia is leading in work done and in programs of work adopted by the national body.

Richardson, Mrs. Albert Thornton, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Gordon Chason, of Bainbridge, were the speakers. Legislation and applied education were the themes of conferences Thursday afternoon, the first led by Mrs. Price Gilbert, of Atlanta, acting for Hon. Robert E. Berner, of Macon, chairman, and the second by Mrs. W. C. Kellogg, of Augusta.

Dr. M. M. Parks, state superintendent of schools, was the principal speaker on the evening of the citizenship department. Mrs. Alonzo Richardson presiding, presented as the principal speaker Hon. Frederick A. Wallis, of New York, former U. S. commissioner of immigration, whose subject was "Immigration and Americanization."

Social Events. Brilliant social events of Thursday were a reception at the State Normal school given by the school and a luncheon given by Miss Mildred Followed Wonderful Program. Thursday's collection was the following on a wonderful human interest program before the convention Wednesday when fifty boys and girls motoring down from the federation school at Tallulah appeared before the clubwomen and expressed their appreciation of what the school means to them and how much more room and equipment is needed for other girls and boys like themselves who are clamoring for entrance and the chance of an education will give them.

The expansion program for Tallulah had a splendid boost also from Ida Clyde Clarke, associate editor of the Pictorial Review, one of the principal speakers of Wednesday night, who cut her prepared speech to say, "If the children of the Tallulah school should put on at the Hippodrome in New York the human interest program they presented for the Georgia federation, it would not be necessary to ask for a paltry $50,000 dollars to enlarge their school. They would be showered with money. Five million would not be hard to raise."

"These children must not be exploited, however," continued Mrs. Clarke. "It ought necessary for the federation to see these children; they should feel their responsibility without such visualization, and regard the care of the school as a privilege."

"The young men and women in America is enjoying the best advantages the schools and colleges of America afford. Shall the mountain children of your own state, in whose veins flows the purest Anglo-Saxon blood in the country, be deprived of what is the right of democracy?"

Highways and Politics. In strong resolutions offered by Mrs. Albert E. Thornton the convention protested against the making of the Georgia highway department a political organization and the federated clubwomen pledged themselves to work towards sending representatives to the general assembly who would vote to take the highway department out of politics. The same resolutions expressed the intention of the clubwomen to urge the members of the next legislature to make the necessary provisions to meet federal aid in road building.

Other resolutions provided for the furnishing of a room in the woman's dormitory at the Georgia State College of Agriculture in honor of Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, of Savannah, the pioneer in requesting that women be admitted to the university. Resolutions offered by Mrs. Ira E. Farmer, of Thomson, and passed, endorsed the work of the home demonstration agents and urged upon the legislature that appropriations be made to meet in full the terms of the Smith-Lever act.

Resolutions offered by Mrs. Albert E. Thornton provided for the study of the proposed work of the state forestry association, an effort to have the study of forestry introduced into the schools, and that forestry exhibits in the fall fairs be given popular attention.

A resolution read Thursday and to be acted upon Friday would request the governor to put three women on the board of prison commissioners, and

Mrs. Boykin Calls Meeting Of Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary

The Y. M. C. A. Women's auxiliary announces its first fall meeting after a meeting of the executive board at the home of the president, Mrs. S. F. Boykin, at 289 Ponce de Leon avenue.

The executive board will meet at the Central Y. M. C. A., 75 Luckie street, at 2:30 o'clock, and the entire auxiliary will convene at 3 o'clock. The entire business program will be discussed at this meeting.

The Y. M. C. A. Women's auxiliary is one of the largest and most active auxiliaries in the city, and its activities in relation are unlimited. It functions in every department from Student Aid Foundation. That the Georgia federation has now a college 43 girls, through its student aid foundation, was a detail of the report made by Mrs. L. B. Wey, of Atlanta, chairman of the student aid foundation. This fund, only the interest of which can be loaned, is $23,566. The need of enlarging the fund was pointed out by Mrs. Wey, by the fact that 57 applications this year, all worthy of being granted, had to be refused for lack of funds.

The report of Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, of Madison, chairman of the Ella F. White endowment fund, which is planned to be $25,000, showed that the clubs are far behind in their allotted contributions to it. The total amount on hand now is only $4,800.

Miss Laura Smith, of the executive board, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, brought a message from the chamber through its business women's division, placing at the disposal of club women all over the state, either as individuals or as clubs, the club room fitted up by the Atlanta chamber, as well as the auditorium, and stenographic and other services.

Hightower's Come to Our Majestic Demonstration

One Range or Three. Which?

One Great Majestic Range will last, say 20 years—two or three times as long as the average steel range.

Take the price of a cheap range. Multiply it by two or three. This is the price of a Majestic with such ranges.

Besides, the Majestic parts of the Majestic save breakage and repairs. The Majestic saves fuel. It saves food. It saves wives. Cheap ranges are always more expensive in the end.

Be sure to come to the DEMONSTRATION now going on at our store.

Next Week, "Snow Blind"

BY KATHERINE NEWLIN BURT

George laughed grimly. "I say that, too. But how?"

"Are you certain of your facts, George?"

"I've seen my mother's will."

"Legally, then, we'll get it out of him by law."

"I've thought of that," George said. "I don't think it is possible. Look, the passage runs like this: 'To my brother Christopher Marrapit, 3,000 pounds, and I desire him to educate him in the medical profession my son, George.' Not even with which I desire him, you see. I don't think there's any legal way of getting the money I want—the four hundred."

For full ten minutes Professor Wyvern made no answer. "When I was a student in Germany we had a professor called Meyer," he said. "He wore a wig because he was quite bald. He was very sensitive about his baldness and would have no one know—but we knew. Upon one afternoon there was a great violinist who was coming to play at Gottenberg. All the professors were there, and for this occasion they would postpone their lectures so that their classes might attend the concert. But this Professor Meyer refused that he would not postpone his lecture. His class, of which I was one, was very furious. We told him that they were entitled to holiday this day since all had it, but he would not hear us. We were very angry, for this holiday was our right."

"Now, also, one week before the concert the burgomaster of our town was to give a great banquet to the celebration of the centenary of a famous citizen. Here our Professor Meyer was to make a speech. Well, when he reminded the banquet, determined to give us no holiday, we had a great meeting and thus we arranged to procure the holiday that was ours by right."

"Our plot was justified by his selfishness. He should lose the thing he most cherished—he should lose his wig two days before the banquet with the burgomaster. One of us would take his wig, seeing him as by night he walked to his rooms. Before his distress we should be most sympathetic, offering every aid. Perchance he would encourage our efforts by offer of the prize we most desired."

"The plot worked, with no misadventure, to a brilliant triumph. We took the wig. We enveloped him in our sympathy. 'Search out and restore my wig,' said he, and you shall have your holiday.' Then we found his wig, and we enjoyed the holiday that was our right. That is the story," Professor Wyvern ended. Mystification closed George's face.

"He said slowly: 'But I don't see how the thing helps me?'"

"Well, you must think over it," Professor Wyvern told him. "I dare not tell you any more. I must be party to the inference that we have drawn. But do you not see that the thing our professor cherished most was his wig? Now, Bill has told me that the thing your uncle cherishes above all price is—"

George jumped to his feet, his face aflame.

"I see, I see," he shouted. "And, by Gad, I'll do it!"

George almost shouted at the aged professor as he realized the full purpose of the plan.

"His Rose of Sharon!" he cried. "That's his most cherished thing! By Gad!" he repeated. "I'll do it tonight!"

So the Rose of Sharon was to take the part of Professor Meyer's wig in Professor Wyvern's story. She was to be kidnapped as Professor Meyer's wig was taken away. The wig was returned when Meyer's students were granted the holiday they demanded; Mr. Marrapit's darling cat would be returned when George's miserly uncle should (unwittingly perhaps) provide the money—which George believed rightfully his—to establish him in the coveted seaside practice and to marry his Mary.

George told himself he must be prepared against the eventuality of his uncle's failing to offer in public reward so large a sum as the 400 pounds he needed. Just did not greatly distress him, indeed if that sum were offered, but, failing it, it was upon Mr. Marrapit's gratitude that George ultimately reckoned.

Surely when he "found" the cat it would be Mr. Marrapit's natural reply to give in exchange the sum he said that afternoon so violently refused. At the least, he could not refuse to lend it.

Early in his brooding George had decided he must not tell his Mary. First, it would be cruel to set her upon the track of acting a part before Mr. Marrapit; second, my ignoble spirit his Mary would regard this as a plot to make her partner in it. No, he would not tell his Mary.

A moon as clear as that which shone when Bill stole to Herons' Holt told George that the night was a clear light; George, as late as night, he began to put his plot into action.

The cat's parlor back of the house gave upon a little strip of turf that kept away the kitchen garden. George drew his knife; approached the window. Now he was a criminal in deed.

To slip the catch is easy work. George inserted his penknife and, click, the trick is done!

Now he is in the room. Glimmer of moonlight discloses the Rose, snugly curled, a little free of her silken covert.

The ravisher's hands descended upon her person—she only purred. They passed about her warm and exquisite form—she purred the more. They tickled her as they laid hold—she stretched a leg; purred with fuller note. Perchance this virgin cat dreamed of some gallant young Tom wooing her; perchance these tickling hands had their deliciously transfigured place in her visions; perchance—she only purred.

Now George tucked her beneath his arm.

He is outside now. He draws down the sash. Through the gate, into the lane, over the stream, down the ride, into the copse—up to the hut which he and Mary had used as a trysting place. There on a little heap of bracken, upon which Mrs. Major doubtless had reclined while with Old Tom she talked, he presses down the Rose, backs out, closes the door.

In an hour George is sleeping the dreamless, childlike slumber that comes to those who, setting their hand to the work, have manfully labored a noble day's work.

He was aroused by a rude shaking. Night-capped and dressing-gowned, white-faced and trembling, awful in his manner, he stood before him. "Get up!" The Rose of Sharon is lost.

"Impossible!"

"I tell you it is so. Up!"

George pushed a shaking leg out of bed. He was had unaware. As a sleeper pitched sleeping into the sea, so from unconsciousness he was hurled plump into the whirlpool of events. And as the sleeper thus immersed would gulp and sink and kick, so now he blinked, shivered and gasped.

"What shall I do?" he asked as he got into his trousers.

"Join the searchers. Scours the grounds. Search every shrub, climb every tree," commanded his uncle.

The agonized man led downstairs. "I found the window open," he moaned. "Night after night, year in year out, I have shut it. Impossible that I forgot. If I forgot, the Rose is in the garden or in the vicinity. If I did not forget, the window was forced—Rose was stolen. A detective shall find her."

George grew quite cold. Employment of a detective had not occurred to him. They were at the front door. He put a hand on Mr. Marrapit's arm. Oh, not a detective. Don't get a detective.

"If need be, I will get forty detectives. I will blacken the countryside with detectives!"

George hurried out of sight in the kitchen garden sat down to think. He was full frightened. Thus far the plot had not worked well. Detectives! He gave an hour to the search he was ostensibly conducting; when he again entered the house he was more easy-minded than George. There was no break-fast at Herons' Holt that morning.

When George, dressed, bathed, and shaved, sought out his uncle it was to find Mr. Marrapit in the study. The distracted man was pacing the floor, a closely written sheet of paper in his hands. He turned upon George. "In the hour of my travail I am also beneath the burden of earlier griefs. Yesterday a disastrous scene took place between us."

"Forget that, sir. Forget it."

"That is my desire. Misery walls through the corridors. In her presence let us bury private differences. In this appalling catastrophe every help is required. You have youth, manhood; you should be invaluable."

George declared: "I mean to be. I will not rest until the Rose is restored."

"This was perfectly true, as he was to discover."

Mr. David Brunger, private detective, appeared on the books of the Bole-building's management as lessee of a single room. The appearance of his quarters as presented to the visitor had, however, a more pretentious aspect.

"Who are they?"

"The teacher is a white man by the name of Socrates who came from a place called Athens. The other white gentlemen came from the city of Rome beyond the water and this good man goes by the name of Marcus Brutus. He don't talk much but sits about so sad and forsaken."

"But this can't be," said, for Socrates drank hemlock 400 years B. C., and died and Brutus fell upon his own sword on the plains of Philippi 2,000 years ago."

"Oh, I know all about that," she said. "I have heard them tell it. Socrates took a harmless drug and pretending to be dead escaped towards Africa and was caught at sea by Tanglebeard."

"The soldier had his servants to follow report his death and to give the people a dead man who resembled himself. Then the poor soul ran away and in his flight from the plains of Philippi to the land of Gail, Tanglebeard captured him and brought him to the island of Binini, where he works and roves all the time."

"Dave, I am stunned. What will the people say when this good news explodes?"

"Speechless, dumb and amazed said he, 'they will drink it in and beg for more.'"

Then we told Aunt Nellie good-bye and set out, with a vim, in pursuit of the hellish old outlaw, from some other world.

Searching a few moments, we struck the trail again, and following it for several miles through a jungle, we came to the foot of a tall ridge covered with a dense growth of cedar.

At the foot of the hill a tiny lake lay nestled in the solitude, and on its sandy beach we saw the demon's tracks.

He wore an old run-down pair of shoes twice the size of those used by an ordinary man, and the steps were five to six feet apart.

"What a giant," Dave whispered. Turning up the ever-dimining trail to the crest, we saw a narrow, deep valley bordered by a range and cliff on the other side.

Things seemed strange, but descending the ridge to the valley, we came to a point where the trail forked into many paths.

"We followed one but, winding around many times, came back to the starting point. In like manner we tested each trail and got the same results."

"This is a puzzle, Dave, constructed by Tanglebeard to deceive his pursuers and thereby prevent them from finding his house and home. I believe he is close at hand, so be careful, look and listen."

We waited for sometime in the glo of jungles but, hearing nothing and the sun being low, we started again to find the trail that we believed led from the puzzle to his castle.

struck a dim path that led towards the cliff on the other side.

Then we sneaked and inched along until we came to the foot of the cliff. There we saw a plain trail lead up through the dense cedars towards the cliff, which stood about one-third of the way from the valley to the crest.

"Dave, I see an overhanging cliff and I do believe he lives in a cave instead of a cabin."

"Bill, I feel curious."

"Well, come on," I said. "It is nearly sundown and it will never do to spend the night in this dark cave, where right terrible things are said to happen. It is almost time now for him to start on his night errands. So come on."

"I am ready, Bill, go on."

"Cock your gun, draw your knife, be cool and instant," I whispered.

Then we crept cautiously up to a point about fifty steps from the cliff and stopped. We saw an overhanging rock and beneath it a dark, deep hole large enough for a man to walk in and out.

Leaving the path we crept a few steps to the west and concealed ourselves in the low, swinging moss and stood ready.

Just as the sun was setting a strange dog came out and, looking in all directions and sniffing the air, turned and walked back to the cave. In a few moments a rattle snake, with a head the size of a dog, crawled out and lifting his head aloft, looked in all directions and licking out its forked tongue, raised its tail and began to rattle.

Instantly rattles snakes began to rattle all around us and the hair stood like bristles up on our heads.

The snake turned and looked back, and we saw the dim outline of a great giant move to the front and, hesitating for a second, vanish.

The next moment a great black shaft of mist poured out of the cave towards us.

"Sleepy gas and lung fire!" Dave exclaimed in a whisper, and down the hill he broke headlong and, reaching the valley, we turned on our searchlights and frantically made for home. But, reaching the crest of the first ridge, we fell, exhausted, upon the ground to rest.

Lying upon the ridge we heard Tanglebeard, in a few moments, blow a strange horn from his gloomy cliff and instantly the wolves began to howl and assemble towards his den.

"Dave, Tanglebeard is calling up his wolves to put on our trail."

"What will we do, Bill. Our time has come."

"At this moment the snorting deer came flying by in frantic leaps and bounds."

"Lung fire!" I exclaimed, and up we sprang and started again at full speed in the bright moonlight.

Fleeing about one hour, we heard a great pack of wolves coming on our trail.

"Oh, Bill, what will we do?" Dave asked.

"Come," said I, "and let's back track like rabbits and throw them off the trail."

Then we ran for about one-half mile and, returning the way we came, swung into a tree and wrapped ourselves in moss and set down.

In a moment the vicious pack passed beneath us in full blast and, upon coming to the point where we had turned back, lost our trail, became confused and ceased to hunt.

We sat there till sundown, but did not hear a wolf or anything else unusual.

"Dave, rabbits lick their feet to prevent dogs from tracking them and the wolves can't track us."

So we did, and coming down, made for the boat landing where we had planned to make a raft and go to Fort Myers.

We ran and walked all day till a little after sunset and, hearing something, looked back.

We saw the wolves turn over a ridge in full blast, and Tanglebeard, sitting upon a log, bellowed like a locomotive. Amazed, we dashed forward one hundred yards, and back tracking some distance, ran to the beach and made down it for the boat landing like one gone mad.

In a moment the wolves lost the track and hushed, but on we fled in the shallow water, with desperation wild.

The next moment they struck our tracks like a tornado. We looked back. They were rounding a curve like a volcanic blast.

"Oh, heaven, we are gone!" We are gone!" Dave cried.

Frightened, headlong and amazed we dashed round a curve and there sat Charlie and the boat he had rescued.

"Raise the anchor, Charlie. Raise it, raise it," we whooped.

The next moment we piled into the boat crying: "Fly! Fly! Fly! Charlie fly!"

The wolves dashed up, but the boat leaped like a flying fish and left the demons raging. The next moment Tanglebeard shot a blast of gas, but bless the Lord, as it was flying over our own heads the west wind beat it back, and we escaped unharmful.

And, oh, how great was our joy.

But before we had time to catch a second breath, Tanglebeard pulled his hair down over his face and leaped into the lake astride the great beast. Frantic with rage, he charged like a locomotive run mad.

"On Heaven!" I cried. "Pull the throttle wide, Charlie, wide, wide!"

The boat shot forward like a frog but all in vain. The demon, with his knife aloft, was at our heels.

"Turn, boys, turn, and fire," I raved.

Instantly we whirled and, taking aim at his head, fired—bang, bang, bang.

Hair flew, blood flowed; he raged. But as he rose suddenly to leap into the boat, we fired again—bang, bang, bang.

Georgia Needs Diversified Farming Plus Intelligent Marketing, Expert Declares

Diversified farming plus intelligent marketing is the solution to Georgia's agricultural crisis, Aaron Sapir, noted California co-operative marketing expert, declared in his address before members of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association at the state capital Thursday morning.

Mr. Sapir was introduced by Eugene Black, president of the Atlanta Trust company, who stated that the farmers of Georgia should have a profit out of the products they produce and expressed his unqualified confidence in the co-operative marketing program.

In speaking on co-operative marketing, Mr. Sapir stated that more than 30 years ago the farmers of California were in the same financial conditions as the farmers of Georgia today, but that because of their study among themselves what could be done to relieve their depression. After investigation the Californians fell upon a co-operative system of marketing.

During the past 30 years, farmers of California, he stated, have been applying the Danish technical rules and plans of the products they produce to California and American conditions and problems.

He emphasized the point that Californian towns and cities today are prosperous, but not because of their being manufacturing centers as they have practically no manufacturing concerns. He stated that they are prosperous because the farmers around these towns and small cities are organized and selling their products co-operatively and profitably, all of which has made California towns, as well as farms, progressive and prosperous.

The three forces, he stated, that solved California's marketing problems, were the farmers, the merchants and the bankers. This solution was brought about, he said, by the perseverance of the farmers, the business experience of the merchants and the guidance of the bankers, all of whom met and worked together for a common cause, namely, marketing California farm products so that they would be sold directly according to the demand at the places of consumption rather than be dumped to speculators who bought according to the demand at the places of production.

Mr. Sapir gave the following essential points necessary in the organization of any co-operative marketing association:

"First, the association must be organized around one commodity and on a statewide basis rather than on a local basis.

"Second, the growers must sign a written contract to deliver for a period of years, which should be from five to fifteen.

"Third, there must be one vote to each member.

"Fourth, the association must be composed of farmers only who grow the product.

"Fifth, the association must be legally incorporated."

When the above principles are observed, he said, the association can sell their product co-operatively, and stated that in California a violation of a contract means a written invitation for a law suit. He emphasized the importance of having a written contract.

In this connection he mentioned the fact that the Bean Growers' Association of California, has recently gotten a judgment against the largest bean grower in the world for contract violation in the sum of more than $22,000.

Many Speakers Launched.

The speaker declared that co-operative marketing associations can and will handle profitably to the growers of Georgia potatoes, pecans, and poultry products, just the same as they are marketing apricots, prunes, raisins, beans and other commodities successfully in California today. He stated that California had developed co-operative marketing without making mistakes and that the co-operative associations in California, successful as they are today, were made so after numerous efforts, both successful and unsuccessful.

Through co-operative marketing, the speaker stated, that California eggs sell today in New York state in competition with Long Island eggs notwithstanding the high freight charges, and that last year New York City used 500 carloads containing 900 cases each of eggs, marketed by the Egg Producers' association in California.

Likewise, co-operative associations in California and the northwestern states ship their apples to New York and the eastern markets, and although they pay $1.25 per box for freight charges, they sell at a premium over apples grown in New York state and profitably to the growers.

In the afternoon Mr. Sapir, who is counsel for the Georgia association, conferred with the board of directors at the association headquarters.

Late in the day he left for Birmingham, where the Georgia association is holding a meeting of the American Cotton Growers' exchange will be held Friday.

on a statewide basis rather than on a local basis.

"Second, the growers must sign a written contract to deliver for a period of years, which should be from five to fifteen.

"Third, there must be one vote to each member.

"Fourth, the association must be composed of farmers only who grow the product.

"Fifth, the association must be legally incorporated."

When the above principles are observed, he said, the association can sell their product co-operatively, and stated that in California a violation of a contract means a written invitation for a law suit. He emphasized the importance of having a written contract.

In this connection he mentioned the fact that the Bean Growers' Association of California, has recently gotten a judgment against the largest bean grower in the world for contract violation in the sum of more than $22,000.

Many Speakers Launched.

The speaker declared that co-operative marketing associations can and will handle profitably to the growers of Georgia potatoes, pecans, and poultry products, just the same as they are marketing apricots, prunes, raisins, beans and other commodities successfully in California today. He stated that California had developed co-operative marketing without making mistakes and that the co-operative associations in California, successful as they are today, were made so after numerous efforts, both successful and unsuccessful.

Through co-operative marketing, the speaker stated, that California eggs sell today in New York state in competition with Long Island eggs notwithstanding the high freight charges, and that last year New York City used 500 carloads containing 900 cases each of eggs, marketed by the Egg Producers' association in California.

Likewise, co-operative associations in California and the northwestern states ship their apples to New York and the eastern markets, and although they pay $1.25 per box for freight charges, they sell at a premium over apples grown in New York state and profitably to the growers.

In the afternoon Mr. Sapir, who is counsel for the Georgia association, conferred with the board of directors at the association headquarters.

Late in the day he left for Birmingham, where the Georgia association is holding a meeting of the American Cotton Growers' exchange will be held Friday.

FORBES TO ADDRESS
LEGIONAIRES TODAY

Atlanta members of the American Legion will have the opportunity today of hearing Colonel C. R. Forbes, director-in-chief of the United States Veterans' bureau, who will deliver an address before the combined meeting of the local posts at 12:30 at the Kimball house today.

Colonel Forbes is in the city en route to New Orleans, where he will attend the national convention of the legion. On Thursday night he addressed the members of the local chapter of the Societe des Hommes, 409 Chevreux S. and before an enthusiastic audience told of the efforts of an organization which, under his supervision, is spending $545,000,000 a year—one-fifth of the total annual federal outlay, exclusive of the public debt.

In the party which accompanied Colonel Forbes to Atlanta is Stanley M. Reinhardt, M. D., who also addressed the members of the legion Thursday night.

Colonel Forbes, in his address, told the legionnaires present that his visit to Atlanta was not caused by a desire to visit them primarily, nor to visit the local offices of his bureau, but to visit an ex-serviceman in the Atlanta federal penitentiary who had written him, requesting magazines or other reading matter, to modify the tedious

New York, October 12.—(Special.) Mrs. Effie Pope Hill Alsop, former Washington, Ga., beauty, and divorced wife of Edward B. Alsop, millionaire manufacturer of Pittsburgh and Washington, denied today, following her release from Bellevue hospital, where she was taken ten days ago as a drug addict, that she was an habitual user of veronal or other narcotics.

Ten years ago, when she was 17 and he was 77, she and the aged millionaire were married. He had first seen her when she was but 14 years old and was running about the lavatory of a hotel at Lake "Towaway," N. C. Alsop gave her a Fifth avenue home and took her on a honeymoon trip to Europe, but two months after the wedding he transferred $1,000,000 worth of property to his two sons who were
